Ike Gets Frenzied Welcome From Over Million in India

Called 'Prince of Peace' In Greatest Reception Ever Extended to Foreign Visitor

BY WATSON SIMS
New Delhi — (AP)—A joyously hysterical throng of more than one million—sometimes terrifyingly out of control—surged about President Eisenhower tonight as he rode for miles through this capital of India. Proclaimed in a huge banner as "The Prince of Peace," the president was caught tight in an awesome crush of screaming, almost worshipful humanity. It was the greatest welcome this capital ever has given a foreign visitor, eclipsing that accorded Nikita S. Khrushchev four years ago. Eisenhower had been welcomed tumultuously in both Pakistan and Afghanistan, but this was one for the history books. Waving and smiling on the snail-paced 11-mile trip from the airport, he seemed at times bewildered by the sheer massiveness of the welcome. The trip into the city took 2 hours 5 minutes. Hundreds of police were utterly unable at times to keep back the surging crowds who stopped the motorcade in its tracks a number of times. Some screamed out: "American badshah! (King)." Some tossed flowers. Most just shrieked their approval for a man from the other side of the world. White House Sec. James Hagerty, himself somewhat

Shot to Death Playing Game

Cops and Robbers Chase Ends Fatally For Milwaukee Boy

Milwaukee — (AP)—A game of cops and robbers played late Tuesday with the death of a 10-year-old boy. Police reported that David Tishim, 10, admitted that he accidentally shot and killed Vincent J. Sternig while they were playing in the basement of the Tishim home. Detective Sgt. Walter Lazowski said that David told him this story of the accident. The two boys went to the Tishim home where they found a .410 caliber shotgun dismantled and unloaded. David put it together and then chased each other around the basement with it. David put in a shell he found, but kept the safety catch on so the gun would not fire. During the chase, however, the safety was released and David aimed at Vincent and pulled the trigger. The gun discharged and struck Vincent in the back. David tried to wash out the wound with water from a hose in a laundry tub, but unable to do anything about it, carried his friend upstairs to the living room. He put a pillow under Vincent's head, wrote a note saying "I go away," and left.

6 Broadcast Executives in Cleanup Group

Committee Named By President of U. S. Association

Washington — (AP)—Six broadcasting executives were named today to an industry committee created to bring about a thorough housecleaning in the radio and television industry.

The appointments were announced by Harold E. Fellows, president of the National Association of Broadcasters.

Fellows, chairman of the group, said in a statement, the committee was authorized by the association's board of directors. Five of the association's staff executives will also serve on the committee.

The special group, he said, will deal with "ethical and legal issues facing radio and television."

The FCC is holding public hearings on broadcast programming. It also has ordered all radio and television stations to file information by Jan. 4, 1960, concerning so-called "payola" practices.

Members of the industry housecleaning group, in addition to Fellows are:

F. C. Sowell, vice president and general manager, WLAC, Nashville, Tenn.; G. Richard Shaflo, executive vice president, WIS-TV, Columbia, S. C.; Merrill Lindsay, executive vice president, WSOY, Decatur, Ill.; Dwight W. Martin, chairman of the board, WAFB-TV, Baton Rouge, La.; Daniel W. Kops, president, WAVZ, New Haven, Conn.; and Clair R. Little Hope Held Out for Lives of 20 Aboard; Toll Of Gale Increased to 108

London — (AP)—Winter gales in the North sea overturned a Norwegian freighter today and little hope was held for any of her 20 crewmen. The giant storm, raging for the fifth day in the Atlantic and along the coasts of Europe, has taken a toll of 108, dead or missing.

The 1,179-ton Elfrida was found floating bottom up off the southern coast of Norway after she radioed for help. Her last call said the crew was taking to lifeboats.

The Oslo motorship Buffalo found two overturned lifeboats and six bodies, and the Norwegian liner Oslofjord found a lifeboat but with no one aboard. Amateur radio operators said they heard another ship reporting 10 bodies found.

Removed by Copter The Norwegian air-sea rescue service said, however, it had three Catalina planes still searching for another lifeboat.

Off the Scottish coast, however, a happy ending for the seven crew members of the North Carr lightship was finally recorded.

Two Royal Air Force helicopters plucked the crew to safety as the lightship drifted perilously close to the rocky shore.

An entire lifeboat crew of eight was drowned Monday night in an effort to reach the

Approve Higher Vocational Aid

Madison — (AP)—The senate voted 28 to 3 today and sent to the assembly a bill to raise 1960-61 state aids to vocational schools to $1,785,000.

The increase from the present $420,000 appropriation would add about $1,300,000 to the present $24,500,000 deficit in the second year of the Biennium.

Only Sens. Chester Dempsey of Hartland, William Draheim of Neenah and Kirby Hendee of Milwaukee voted against the measure. Each is a Republican.

Helicopter Up 29,770 Feet To Set Record

Bloomfield, Conn. — (AP)—A new world's helicopter record was unofficially established today by the air force with a Kaman Aircraft copter.

A Kaman H-43 B Crash Rescue turbine-powered helicopter reached 29,770 feet in altitude, higher than Mt. Everest, a little under an hour after it took off from the Bloomfield plant grounds.

Phlooting the helicopter was Capt. Walter J. Hodgson, veteran air force rescue pilot, stationed at the flight test center at Edwards Air Force base, Calif. Co-pilot was air force Maj. William J. Davis, project officer on the H-43B development program.

The new record is far higher than the previous one established by a Russian Mi-1 piston engine helicopter on March 12 this year. Its altitude was 21,932 feet.

The record climb will not be official until instruments sealed in the aircraft are forwarded unopened to the bureau of standards in Washington for check.

Assembly Wants to Hear Gov. Rockefeller

Madison — (AP)—The Democratic-controlled assembly adopted a resolution today inviting Republican Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York to address a joint legislative session.

The measure now goes to the senate where favorable action is expected. Democrats went along with suspension of the rules so the resolution could be offered by John Crawford, R-Marshfield. It was adopted by voice vote.

Crawford and Willis Hutnik, R-Tony, circulated the resolution before the session opened, signing up 16 additional GOP co-authors. A number of supporters of Vice President Nixon declined.

Continue Hunt For 19 Felons In Prison Break

One Convict Caught In North Carolina; Others Still Free

BY REESE HART

Ivy Bluff, N. C. — (AP)—Hundreds of officers, using planes and bloodhounds, conducted a massive manhunt today for 19 heavily armed and dangerous convicts still at large from yesterday's break from North Carolina's toughest prison here. One convict was recaptured.

Two helicopters from Ft. Bragg joined the hunt today, the FBI announced. Several private planes also are being used in efforts to spot any of the convicts still in this area. The fact that only a few cars were reported stolen in this section led officers to believe at least some of the escapees are still hiding not far from this prison site close to the Virginia line.

Break Into Home

Four men, one of whom identified himself with the escape here, broke into a home in Memphis, Tenn., and criminally attacked a woman.

They tied up the woman's husband and, while one stood guard with a knife, three raped her. "I'm one of the 20," one of the men declared in what police said was an obvious reference to the break here.

At least three of the escapees were definitely placed in Roanoke, Va., last night after a Buchanan, Va., man reported he was forced to drive three men at gunpoint to Roanoke.

W. R. Robinson told police he arrived at his home to find the trio coming from the house. He said they had taken three business suits and left three sets of prison garb behind. Robinson said he drove the men some 25 miles south and let them off in Roanoke. Neither Robinson nor his wife was harmed.

Virginia state police also reported a car stolen in North Carolina shortly after the break was found abandoned a short distance from the Robinson home.

Wreckage Sighted

Fear 46 Dead in Crash Of Colombian Plane

Bogota, Colombia — (AP)—The airliner missing since yesterday with 46 persons aboard. The wreckage was seen in the San Blas mountains in Panama, the navy announced. There were no signs of life.

The plane carried 33 women and 13 men, the airline Sociedad Aerea de Medellin said. The plane disappeared on a flight from the San Andres islands to Cartagena, northern Colombia. The San Andres are Colombian islands east of Nicaragua in the Caribbean.

The airliner, a twin-engine C46, belonged to S. A. M., a private Colombian airline. Colombian naval vessels last night steamed toward an area 200 miles west of Cartagena where the plane was believed down.

Last Word Tuesday The plane made its last radio report yesterday at 11:27 a.m., 20 minutes after taking off from San Andres. There was no report of trouble. It carried fuel for six hours flying time.

Military planes from Panama joined Colombian Air Force planes in the air search which began yesterday. Planes of the Colombian airlines, S. A. M. and Avianca, also patrolled the Caribbean waters. President Alberto Lleras Camargo sent his presidential plane to join in the search today.

The missing plane was carrying tourists returning to Cartagena and Medellin after a holiday on the islands. A free port was recently declared on San Andres to attract tourists.

Debris Was Scattered about 1,500 feet over the Paxton school campus in Paxton, Fla., when a 2-ton boiler exploded just two minutes before recess for the grade school classes. Two basketball players in a dressing room near the boiler room were injured. Damage to the $57,000 building was estimated at $35,000.

Turn Down Plan For Port Survey

Kill Amended Resolution Giving Board Right to Hire Consultant

The county's airport planning problem returned to the point of beginning Tuesday when the board of supervisors grounded plans for a survey of port adequacy or lack of it.

The final vote of 31 against, 22 for, one present and one absent, came after an amendment to the original resolution had removed the airport and park committee's authority to interview and hire a consulting firm.

Chairman Alvin Fulcer said the action appeared to leave no other course than to appropriate funds for improving the present port site.

North Carolina Plant Dynamited

Henderson, N.C. — (AP)—The winding and spinning room of the Harriet-Henderson Cotton Mills South Henderson plant was damaged last night when several sticks of dynamite exploded near the plant.

Some 20 persons working in the room escaped serious injury.

Police said they believed the dynamite was tossed from a passing vehicle. It was another in a series of outbursts in the year-old strike at the mills.

The Textile Workers Union of America struck the Harriet-Henderson mills Nov. 17, 1958. The plant has been operating since late May with non-strikers. The strike hinges on arbitration and checkoff issues.

replaced by James T. Aubrey Jr., executive vice president of the television network. Stanton "made it impossible for me to continue," Cowan declared.

His letter of resignation accused Stanton of publicly and privately expressing confidence in his integrity while urging the resignation and asking him not to communicate with his office.

Cowan charged that Stanton refused to approve any resignation announcement except one giving poor health as the reason. Cowan refused to go along with this. In reply to Cowan's statement, Stanton said: "It shocks me that you

Goldfine Authorized To Testify in Private

Washington — (AP)—House investigators today granted Boston industrialist Bernard Goldfine's request to testify before them in private. They said he would be questioned extensively on alleged mismanagement of one of his companies.

Goldfine came back before the committee as a result of a long wrangle over his refusal last year to answer 18 questions about alleged borrowings from the Boston Port Development company, a real estate holding company which he controlled but did not own outright.

Goldfine was convicted of contempt of congress for refusing to answer the question. He was given a suspended sentence of a year in jail and $1,000 fine and ordered to answer the questions if the house legislative oversight subcommittee persisted in asking them.

Says He Was Forced Out

Originator of '$64,000 Question' Resigns as CBS Television Chief

New York — (AP)—Louis G. Cowan, who originated the now-discredited quiz show "The $64,000 Question," has resigned as president of the Columbia Broadcasting System television network.

He charged yesterday that Frank Stanton, president of the entire CBS operation, had forced him out—using health as an excuse—because of his early connection with the show, despite the fact that his personal integrity had not been questioned.

CBS announced he would be should attribute to me motives that have no basis in fact whatsoever."

Cowan was affiliated with the "Question" for its first seven weeks in 1955.

Because of his illness Cowan did not appear as a witness but other testimony bore out his statement that "Question" was honest during his association with it.

In another development stemming from the quiz show scandals, the National Broadcasting company yesterday ordered an end to a kickback operation practiced by the network.

Study Changes in Government Setup

Ike Reported Mulling Over Two Ideas for Creating Business Manager, Super Secretary Jobs

Washington — President Eisenhower reportedly is mulling over two ideas for modernizing the top level executive organization of the government.

They are:

Creation of a first secretary of the government, a sort of super-secretary, who would outrank cabinet members and the vice president and who would take over much foreign policy detail now handled personally by the president.

A "business manager," who would rank at cabinet level and who would coordinate many domestic programs now involving a number of agencies and departments.

Ike's Thinking

The president has been thinking along these lines for several years, White House associates say, but his ideas are still rather vague, not yet in a concrete form for submission to congress.

Eisenhower has spoken publicly of his thoughts in this field from time to time. He has made it clear that any reorganization of the executive would be one of his final acts as president, so that no one would think he was trying to benefit himself. If such proposals are actually presented, then, it probably would be done some time next year.

The super-secretary idea got a cold reception on Capitol Hill.

Republican Senate Leader Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill) said Eisenhower has not discussed the idea with congressional leaders. But he added that any proposal to place another official above the cabinet would bring "a long discussion in congress of where that road might lead."

"First of all," Dirksen said, "the human factor would have to be considered. What would other cabinet members think of such a change? How would it conflict with the constitutional powers given to the president and other officers?"

Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, assistant Democratic leader said "what this would mean would be a downgrading of the secretary of state and a belittling of the position of the vice president."

"I don't think congress would want to undertake to change the form of our government in that way."

As outlined by White House sources, the super-secretary idea is this:

He would be authorized to act for the president in many foreign matters and possibly even take over some of his travels.

He would be completely in the president's confidence and familiar with his thinking to such an extent that he could act in many cases without consulting the president.

State Backing For Nixon Almost Assured

Republicans Form Committee of Top Party Leaders

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — A bid for Wisconsin delegates to back the Republican presidential candidacy of Vice President Richard Nixon was virtually confirmed today with formation of a committee of top Wisconsin party leaders to boost his campaign.

Organization of the Wisconsin Committee for Nixon under the chairmanship of Harvey Hingley, Marinette, long-time party figure, was announced with the filing of documents in the office of the secretary of state.

Other officers and executive committee members included some of the principal spokesmen of the GOP in Wisconsin and conspicuous representatives of the Taft and Eisenhower wings of the party which collided in the last important Wisconsin Republican presidential primary in 1952.

Officers Named

Vice president of the committee is former Rep. Glenn R. Davis, Waukesha. Secretary is Mrs. Glenn Wise, Madison, former secretary of state, and treasurer, William Priaul, Racine county GOP chairman.

Executive committee members include Reps. John W. Byrnes, Green Bay, and Melvin R. Laird, Marshfield, former Gov. Walter J. Kohler, Sheboygan, Sen. Frank Panner, Oakfield, president of the state senate, Wayne J. Hood, LaCrosse, former Republican state chairman, Philip Kuehn, Milwaukee, former GOP state chairman and now a prospective candidate for governor in 1960, Warren P. Knowles, New Richmond, former lieutenant governor and legislative leader, Everett Yerley, LaCrosse, businessman and chairman of the Republican state central committee, and John Cofrin, Green Bay, businessman and veteran party worker.

Hingley said today he will propose a complete list of Republican convention delegates pledged to Nixon to the vice president, but that the names will be withheld until Nixon has approved them.

The state will elect 30 delegates to the Chicago nominating convention. It is not yet clear whether Nixon will be opposed in the contest for Wisconsin delegates. Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York is due here for an exploratory trip next week.

Nixon is expected to make his announcement of filing in the Wisconsin April primary soon after the turn of the year. The deadline for the filing of his delegates for the ballot is March 3.

Marquette University Tuition Goes Up $75

Milwaukee — Marquette University announced today that tuition will be increased next fall to $400 a semester, up $75.

The university also announced a family plan tuition program under which the first member of a family attending would pay the full fee. A second member in school at the same time would pay 25 per cent less and after all additional members enrolled at the same time would pay only 50 per cent.

No Water Skiing Regulation Seen For Another Year

Madison — There will be no regulation of water skiing at a state level for at least another year.

The assembly killed by voice vote Tuesday night a control measure that had the support of Gov. Gaylord Nelson. The bill had been the subject of many hearings but by the time it reached the assembly had been amended frequently.

The assembly approved a budget for the Conservation department for 1960-61 of $14,876,655. It includes an expanded program for access roads to private lakes and for park improvements.

Another bill approved by the assembly relaxes admission policies at university hospitals at Madison. It provides for a slight reduction in charges to veterans who now pay one half their hospitalization cost at the institution. This now averages about $12.50 a day. The bill also provides for a 50-50 cost sharing program by the state and counties for all county patients at the hospital. It is estimated that this would save the counties about $260,000 annually.

Madison — Harold S. Crosby, 69, of Rhineland, a well-known member of Wisconsin's lumber and sawmill industry, died in a hospital here Tuesday.

Episcopal Church Supports Stand on Birth Control Plan

Milwaukee — The National Council of the Episcopal church has reaffirmed its stand on family planning through birth control measures.

The council, governing body of the Protestant Episcopal church of the United States, adopted a statement Tuesday restating its support of birth control resolutions adopted by the 1958 Lambeth conference of the World Anglican Communion in London.

The Rt. Rev. Gordon V. Smith, Des Moines, one of the bishops attending the council conference, objected to passage of the statement, declaring that the issue had become a "political football" and that it would "merely add fuel to the controversy."

The Rev. Gardiner M. Day of Cambridge, Mass., replied that there was "real value in the statement inasmuch as many people know little of what the Lambeth report contains."

Steelworkers, Can Industry In Agreement

Union Now Turns To Aluminum For Next Settlement

Washington — The Steelworkers union boasted today about a new labor agreement in the can manufacturing industry and moved on to aluminum in hopes a settlement there would help pressure steel labor peace.

David J. McDonald, the union's president, said new bargaining talks start today in Chicago with major aluminum manufacturers. He said he hopes to join the sessions there early next week.

The agreement reached yesterday with the American and Continental Can companies—two of the nation's largest steel consumers—calls for wage boosts of 8.2 cents an hour over a 3-year period.

It includes provision for wage boosts of 8.2 cents an hour in each of the three contract years. The can workers averaged $2.73 per hour including overtime in September.

Health Needs

A feature of the can settlement calls for full hospital-surgical benefit coverage, paid for by the employers, to continue for workers after they retire. Retirement benefits also were raised.

"It is believed this is the first time a major American industry has agreed in collective bargaining to provide for the health needs of employees who retire," McDonald said.

"As a result of this progressive step, one of the great problems of old age is met—namely, the fear of people who retire of losing all insurance protection against the hazards of sickness in old age."

McDonald said the basis for the can agreement, covering some 45,000 workers, was worked out by the union with top men of the two can companies, Chairman Lucius Clay of Continental and President William Stolk of American Can.

25 Years More Added to Term

Superior — Richard Trautline, 25, of Eau Claire, was sentenced Tuesday to an additional 25 years in the Wisconsin State prison after he pleaded guilty of armed robbery committed while he was free for a few hours after fleeing from a prison camp. Trautline fled from the camp near Gordon Sunday, stole an automobile and drove to Superior where he held up a filling station. He then drove to Duluth, Minn., only to be taken into custody there and brought back to Superior.

Judge A. Walter Dahl pronounced sentence after Trautline waived preliminary hearing.

State's New Family Code In Effect Jan. 1

Madison — The state's new family code goes into effect Jan. 1 and the legislature may have to decide whether divorce actions pending at the end of 1959 will be subject to provisions of the law.

The legislature's committee on revisions, repeals and uniform laws took up the problem Tuesday but did not reach a decision. The committee said it might turn to the legislature for a definite policy.

The code makes the state's marriage and divorce laws more restrictive.

Earl Saches, secretary of the legislative council, said the code's effective date also poses a problem for end-of-the-year marriages. He suggested an amendment making all marriages performed after Dec. 31, 1959, subject to code regulations even though legal steps for marriage had been completed prior to that date.

Woman, 58, Arraigned In Detroit's Largest Case of Embezzlement

Charged With Taking $100,513 But Firm Says $876,168 Missing

Detroit — Mrs. Mary McCallum Averill, 58, sat silent and almost inconspicuous in the courtroom.

Then the gray-haired, motherly-looking woman was arraigned in what the prosecutor's office described as "the largest embezzlement in Detroit history."

Hands shaking, the retired bookkeeper pleaded innocent and waived examination yesterday on charges of embezzling $100,513 from a former employer. The firm has reported at least $876,168 missing since 1950.

Mrs. Averill was ordered bound over for circuit court trial by recorders Judge Joseph A. Gillis. The woman was released on $1,000 bond. No trial date was set.

Retired in 1957

Wife of a former Detroit police sergeant, Mrs. Averill retired in 1957 from her $20,000-a-year position as head bookkeeper of Giffels and Vallet Inc., a Detroit architectural and engineering firm. She was with the company 29 years.

A company official went to authorities after Mrs. Averill retired and said something was wrong with the firm's books. Assistant Prosecutor William P. Long said auditors discovered at least $876,168 missing.

A warrant for Mrs. Averill's arrest was issued, charging her specifically with embezzling the amount missing between July 24, 1955, and Jan. 10, 1956.

Mrs. Averill, living in retirement with her husband Glenn, 62, at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., was found to have acquired extensive real estate holdings over the years.

Police say the Averills have a 300-acre farm in nearby Macomb county which is valued at $300,000. It includes four homes and a large manor house.

Other property listed includes three houses in Windsor, Ont., and a luxurious summer home in northern Canada.

In Detroit, the couple lived in a swank apartment in a downtown hotel.

The embezzlement charge is the third in which Mrs. Averill has been involved. She pleaded guilty in 1928 to embezzling $8,000 from Pennsylvania Petroleum corporation, her employer.

She was reported to have said at her trial: "I was working; where it was easy to steal, so I stole." She was sentenced to five years probation.

Something New in the Deer Country

Hunters in the north woods do not like to be warned off of property by signs reading No Hunting or Private Property — Keep Out, but neither do they expect to be welcomed by the land owners on all occasions. In the past many lumber companies have tolerated hunting on their property but have not been enthusiastic about the hunters, fearing perhaps that they might cause some damage by tearing up the roads or leaving gates open.

This year, however, two large Wisconsin lumber firms have changed their tactics. The Consolidated Water Power and Paper company and the Goodman Lumber division of Calumet and Hecla sent out about 4,000 letters inviting deer hunters to come onto their property. They even went so far as to enclose maps showing the roads into the property and in addition had the gates opened and the roads cleared so the hunters could get there easily.

In all, the companies are reported to have spent about $4,000 preparing the way for the hunters to visit their property. The Goodman company estimates that about 1,400 deer were killed on its land this year, which is more than twice as many as were killed in 1958 when the company not only did not invite the hunters in but kept its gates locked and otherwise offered a cool reception to the hunters.

It is estimated that this additional kill on the Goodman land will be worth at least $20,000 to the company the first year. The company estimates that deer feeding on tender growth shoots of saplings do more damage to the forest than is caused by windstorms, insects or fires. The U. S. Fish and Wild Life service estimates that there are more than 9 million deer in the United States which is approximately 25 per cent more than 10 years ago and probably more than there were before the country was settled.

The amount of the deer damage is not known precisely although the lumber companies are making an effort to put a dollar figure on it if possible. The Goodman company points to a fenced-off area put up by conservation men 10 years ago to measure deer damage. The timber within the fenced-off area is reported to be 20 feet high while outside it is knee-high brush.

Both companies are reported to be well pleased with the result of their experiment in inviting the hunters in this year. Spokesmen for the companies point out that they have no intention of annihilating Wisconsin's deer herd, but want to bring it into balance with timber growing stock and they feel that they have taken an important step in that direction this year. Furthermore they believe they have built up a certain amount of good will with the public by treating their guests courteously and helping them thin out the deer herd.

New Watch on the Rhine

A French doctor who had spent years in a Nazi concentration camp consistently refused to put foot on German soil although he lived near the border. Finally he was convinced by his son who said, "You know, Father, so long as there are people who think as you do, there will always be wars between us and the Germans." The father now has had several exchange visits with German doctors as part of an experiment in people-to-people diplomacy along the Rhine.

Eighty French and German cities near the border have taken part in these exchanges of visits between people of similar occupations. It is part of the attempt in both countries to overcome the suspicion, fear and hatred which the series of French-German wars engendered.

West Germany's Chancellor Adenauer long has maintained that Bonn and Paris must be united in spirit for the future good health of both nations. In a speech last month, symbolically at the Rhine city of Strasbourg, France's President Charles De Gaulle emphasized that the new relationship between the countries is "one of the most wonderful things of our century." The German and the French people, he said, "walk side by side, on the same road, toward the same human goal."

Serious differences of opinion between the governments still exist. West Germany is not willing to concede that the Oder-Neisse line, drawn up at the end of World War II, is the permanent eastern boundary of Germany as France has urged. France is not willing to integrate her entire armed forces with the other NATO nations although West Germany has insisted this is the only practical basis for continent defense. Both Adenauer and De Gaulle are firm nationalists by background and tradition.

But the fences are definitely down and not the least important is the realization of both governments that the people themselves must come to forget the past and look toward a friendly future. It is necessary if the Rhine is really to become a link rather than a barrier.

How Marriage Counselors Succeed

Judge Louis H. Burke, of the Superior court of Los Angeles, believes that the divorce trial itself is one of the chief causes of divorce in America.

He made this interesting statement at a meeting of the American Bar association's national conference on judicial selection and court administration in Chicago recently. The time for reconciliation, Judge Burke says, is before the case becomes involved in the court procedure which by its very nature tends to drive the parties farther and farther apart.

Therefore, Judge Burke advocates conferences between the couple with marriage counselors before the litigants actually are facing each other in court. The earlier such counseling takes place the better, Judge Burke says, and he declares that even a pamphlet mailed to the couple can help a great deal. In his own court last February the practice of mailing a pamphlet, "A Personal Message to Parents," explaining the service of the conciliation court, resulted in a remarkable change among those couples considering divorce. Shortly after the mailing, he said, the caseload in the conciliation court increased by over 100 cases a month and "the increases were mostly of couples not yet case-hardened by the preliminary legal skirmishes."

As to the importance of the conciliation work, Judge Burke points out that $41 million is appropriated in the Los Angeles County budget for aid to dependent children. Most of these children, he says, are the issue of divorced couples. What those figures mean on a national basis is suggested by the judge's report that "over 400,000 divorce decrees were granted last year in the United States, more than 1,000 per day."

Small wonder, the judge refers to divorce in America as "a disease that has reached epidemic proportions."

Parakeet Smugglers Hurt 'Togetherness'

From The St. Petersburg Times

There has been a rather widespread revolt against "togetherness," only yesterday the ultimate in a sort of saccharine concept of chummy living for families, neighborhoods or even whole towns.

In fact, McCall's magazine, which must accept the responsibility for having ballyhooed the term, if it can evade actually having invented it, has quietly dropped the slogan it once proudly displayed.

It has remained, however, for the U. S. Department of Justice, of all things, to strike what might be the final blow at the concept of togetherness.

The Parakeet Caper There is an ancient legal principle that a man and wife are a single entity. This is reflected in the old rule forbidding a husband or wife to testify against each other, in the fact that a communication between husband and wife, however scandalous, cannot constitute libel or slander.

What the justice department, at the risk of appearing opportunistic, is now seeking, is a supreme court decision that a man and wife can legally commit a conspiracy. The particular case in point, drolly, involves a plot between a husband and his wife to smuggle parakeets from Mexico.

Obviously it takes two to make a conspiracy. The U. S. District court held that a man and wife are only one and dismissed the indictment. This is what the department is appealing, claiming that this is an out-moded concept, dating from the time when a wife couldn't own any property and had to step lively when hubby said so.

The Supreme court last year refused to junk the old rule about a man and wife testifying against each other. The justices agreed that this could cause a lot of trouble.

Whether they'll agree that a couple can conspire might be a different kettle of fish. There hasn't been too much "togetherness" on the high bench itself, lately, and the court might decide to go along with the times and decide that separateness is the mode of the day.

Desert Yield Of Plants Found Good

From The France Actuelle

Satisfactory results are being obtained by French researchers in the growing of plants without soil and with very little moisture. The experiments are being carried out at Beni-Abbes in the Sahara under the direction of the French National Scientific Research Center. The aim is to raise plants in ground which does not contain any humus or other organic matter, and to develop new methods of cultivation that will require a minimum of water.

At Beni-Abbes, magnificent heads of lettuce and cabbage, cress, radishes and other vegetables are flourishing in concrete boxes filled with sand. Of course, nutritive elements have been added, though the quantity of water used has dropped to as little as three-quarters of a gallon per ten square feet of sand a day. By the end of this year, it is hoped that soil-less cultivation can begin on a large scale, and that if this proves successful, the petroleum fields and camps deep in the Sahara can look forward to growing their own fresh vegetables.

Contrary to Thought, Paper Does Have Good News on Teenagers

From The Louisville Courier-Journal

"All I know is just what I read in the papers," is what Will Rogers always said. And actually he did know what he read in the papers, which is not always true of people who think they have read the papers. For example The Richmond Times-Dispatch has found itself criticized for not having reported the complete decorum of two public dances for teenagers held one weekend at a Richmond hotel. The Times-Dispatch was told reproachfully that, if these entertainments had wound up in brawls, the incidents would have been given notice.

This is almost certainly true. However, if our civilization has declined to a state where the fact that adolescents behave themselves at a party is quite unusual and therefore news, then our civilization is at a sordid pass even its most despondent critics allege.

The Times-Dispatch points out what is true of itself and every other newspaper: far more news is printed about good than about the bad deeds of girls and boys. This is simply because girls and boys are far more often good than bad. The Times-Dispatch made a check of its news columns for one week earlier this year. This computation showed 1,218 column-inches related favorable news of youth, 315 column-inches unfavorable news. Of the total of all news (17,808 column inches) published during the week, 5 per cent was good news about juveniles, only 1.7 per cent bad.

We have not applied a ruler to the columns of The Courier-Journal, but we invite any reader to do so. Our conviction is that the percentages will indicate that Louisville's girls and boys are about like Richmond's. We do not mean to brush off the problem of juvenile delinquency. It exists. It concerns newspapers, especially in that news editors are well aware that a certain number of young punks actually rejoice in seeing their names in the papers in what most people, including most young people, would consider worse than disgraceful contexts.

Nevertheless, if you are like Will Rogers and all you know is just what you read in the newspapers, then you must know that the standards of junior achievement, in and out of school, are in many instances probably higher than they were in what older folk are sometimes tempted to think of as the good old days of the razor strap and the birch rod.

Looking Backward

Working Children Need Schooling

79 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for the week of Dec. 11, 1880.

Necessity and the demands of various kinds of manufacturing for the labor of boys and girls, compels many parents to keep their children at work during the day time, and thereby keeping them out of school.

Already the number thus engaged in Appleton is sufficiently large to attract attention and it is doubling with each successive year.

Hence a problem is presenting itself, how shall these children be educated? The public cannot afford to have them grow up in ignorance, for ignorance is but the step-brother to vice.

Should we not, within the coming year, establish an evening school under the auspices of our city Board of Education? There seems to be no other way to reach them, because the voluntary schools established under the auspices of benevolent philanthropic ladies, lacks the power of law to preserve order and render such schools useful and efficient as well as the financial aid and support bestowed upon the ordinary public schools.

All thinking citizens should consider this subject. It is upon us and we cannot elude it aside. It must be met, calmly and prudently, and action must follow thought very soon.

25 YEARS AGO

Wednesday, Dec. 5, 1934

A statement that Nobel, Ltd., British munitions firm founded by the donor of the international peace prize, was guilty of "winking at the rearming of Germany in violation of the Versailles treaty were presented to the senate munitions committee.

Damage estimated at between $500 and $1,000 was caused by an oil burner explosion in the furnace room of Mt. Olive Lutheran church. A member of the congregation was in the furnace room when the explosion occurred and suffered slight burns.

Capt. Anthony Eden, British delegate to the League of Nations, announced that if France would agree not to send troops into the Saar basin territory and if Germany was willing, Great Britain would police the Saar with British troops during the Saar plebiscite next month.

Mrs. Henry E. Schaefer, Appleton, representing Greenville Grange, was elected county drama director for the annual county tournament that was to be held in Appleton in January.

Approximately 160 persons attended a public hearing held by the state highway commission at Wrightstown on the question of rerouting Highway 96 in Brown and Outagamie counties.

10 YEARS AGO

Wednesday, Dec. 7, 1949

The nation's industrialists and businessmen were urged to prepare for the end of the European recovery program in 1952. And, meanwhile, they were told by men close to international affairs, they must make that program workable.

Two representatives from the Outagamie chapter of the American Red Cross were to attend an area conference at Chicago. They were Miss Edith Lewis, executive secretary, and M. A. Kassner, who was to be co-

There are Advantages In Divided Legislature

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — The politically divided legislature this year has forced the legislative leaders of both parties to work harder and to plan their activities more carefully than ever before. An intelligent, wary minority is the best assurance to the public of careful and honest production in the legislative branch of the government.

Wyngaard

The fact of a Democratic majority in the assembly confronted daily by a diligent and resourceful Republican minority, and the fact of a Republican majority in the senate trying to anticipate and head off the skilled work of a disciplined Democratic minority, have brought about a better legislative performance, politically speaking, than in a couple of decades at least.

It is easy for the leadership of a majority that is sure of its power, that knows before every test that it can carry the votes it needs to carry the day, to grow careless and lazy and even arrogant.

The minority that knows that it is out-numbered and that there is nothing it can do about it also tends to become listless and indifferent.

BUT NOW

But today the Republicans in control in the senate and the Democrats in control of the assembly are required to have a respect for the Democratic and Republican minorities, respectively. If they make the slightest slip, falter for the briefest moment, they know they will be pounced upon and hard.

To the by-stander without the ambitious motives of the principals in these contests of wit and propaganda and parliamentary maneuver this closely balanced power arrangement is nearly an ideal situation.

The partisan is likely to argue that it will bring about stalemate and inertia and to a degree that may be true. It is quite clear that there are many propositions this year that won't become law, and that would have become law months ago if Gov. Nelson and his lieutenants had complete control of the show in the legislative branch.

But it is also likely, or virtually certain, that they would have repented later some of the deeds they had achieved in haste, and in the first gleeful flush of their victory. Indeed, there are those thoughtful Democrats who now report quite candidly in their private conversations that some of the administration measures they now are voting for would not have their support if they didn't have the assurance that the Republicans would kill them in on way or the other.

Some of the state administration publicists are complaining about Republican "obstructionism."

Yet when the time comes to beat the bushes for votes a few months hence they will be proudly relating the long list of achievements of their regime, none of which could have been recorded if the Republicans who retain control of one house of the legislature had obstructed altogether and without discrimination.

The gallery observer may also be permitted to guess that some of the measures already defeated and to be turned down won't appear to be such calamitous losses after a few months or a few years pass.

He may be permitted to wonder if the Democrats, if they are given complete power in state affairs after the next election as they are so adamantly demanding, will actually insist upon some of the propositions they are so adamantly demanding now — such as the complete abolition of the conservation commission, a huge state debt, a system of farm product marketing monopolies and the extension of the unemployment insurance program to every corner grocery with a clerk or two in the guise of guarding against mass joblessness and depression.

Farming No Longer U. S. Big Problem

From The Atlanta Constitution

A note from the department of agriculture informs us that in the past 20 years farm production has increased 50 per cent with a third fewer workers. We have used more machines to farm fewer acres.

That's the trend. It won't be reversed. Research and new machines enable fewer and fewer persons to farm the steadily reduced acreage necessary to feed us and have plenty for export.

This means industry must produce jobs and that service businesses must expand. The latter will. Automation may disrupt or delay ability of some production plants to hire more. But there must be more jobs to manufacture the machines of automation. And, always, there are new jobs to produce the needs of leisure — as witness the increased uses of boats, water skis, camping outfits, fishing material and others.

But we must force ourselves to see the new image of America. It is no longer a farm country with farming problems its first consideration, acute though the latter are.

Outagamie county port did not become a part of the discussion, although earlier in the day both those for and against the survey appeared to agree there is a danger of losing the service if North Central Airlines should go to full usage of Conair aircraft before something is done about present facilities.

Supv. Mark Catlin, who heads the airport committee, presented the original survey resolution and demanded that power to award the survey bid remain in the committee. He argued that this is the prerogative of any board committee and any award is subject to board approval. He asked that the committee have the power to interview and engage a nationally-known airport survey firm to study the airport problem and recommend solutions.

Cites Reason

Catlin, after the board voted to take the awarding of the survey bid from his committee, voted against the survey, citing bypassing of his committee as the reason.

Catlin said his committee asked authorization to interview and hire a consultant because he believed the group was best qualified through intensive work on the port problem to make the final decision.

Supv. Russell De La Hunt's amendment calling for interviewing and hiring to be done by the full board triggered an afternoon of debate which, at times, threatened to degenerate into a full-scale free-for-all of shouted charges and counter-charges.

Freighter Tips Over During North Sea Gale

drifting ship, and a tug and lighthouse tender were unable to take her in tow.

Norway's radio frequencies were jammed with distress calls and rescue operations from all over the North sea.

The wreck of the little German freighter Merkur, 995 tons, was found 100 miles off the rugged Norwegian coast not far from where the Elfrida turned over. The Swedish ship Vasaholm and a British trawler reported there was no sign of the Merkur's 7-man crew.

Ship Overdue

The 700-ton Norwegian freighter Grete Solheim, with nine men on her, also was overdue at Aalesund, Norway, and was presumed lost.

The Norwegian salvage ship Slavator was standing by the German freighter Escherhem about 100 miles off Stavanger. The Escherhem reported yesterday she had lost her rudder.

The Norwegian trawler Ertan of Kristiansund, with 14 men aboard, reported she was in trouble off Lerwick, in the Shetlands, after drifting for four days. The Lerwick lifeboat was ready to go to her aid.

The Isle of Oland was cut off from the Swedish mainland by a blizzard and food was reported running low.

The Elfrida first reported that her engine room was flooded. Then she radioed: "We are sinking. We are trying to enter it. We thank all those who come to our assistance."

At least seven ships picked up the call and sped to help. The effort to save the North Carr lightship already had cost eight lives. The entire crew of the lifeboat Mona drowned trying to reach the threatened vessel. Other lifeboat crews refused to put out into the terrifying seas.

The lightship was "drifting off the mouth of the Firth of Forth, with only a single cable and anchor to check somewhat her slow progress toward the rocks. Three other cables had snapped in the gale."

There was little so far the tug and tender could do to help her.

Farther up the coast of

Fischer

Sharp Exchange

Supv. Alois C. Fischer, a member of the committee, charged "if this amendment passes I can practically predict which firm will be hired. These are actions of Catlin, not the committee."

"Since he (Fischer) is making insinuations I'd like to have him present some facts. . . name names," Catlin answered.

"Mr. Catlin," Fischer said, "presented the work of one of these firms at our last meeting. When I stressed the point that this should be a nationally-recognized planning consultant, he objected."

Catlin denied the charge, saying "I will be delighted," Mr. Chairman, "to have those words in any resolution calling for a survey. They're meaningless."

Real Issue

"The real issue is that he (Fischer) wants a particular person . . . firm . . . to do the job. His group wants one particular one."

"Several groups have been consulted . . . it was not alone," Fischer said.

When the resolution as amended was defeated, thus killing the survey proposal for the moment at least, Supv. De La Hunt said, "Perhaps there has been a victory for someone here this afternoon, I don't know. What I want to know is where are you going now?"

'Stupid' Work

Supv. D. C. Evans, a staunch and outspoken foe of the survey plan and the only member of the airport and parks committee who refused to sign the original resolution, cited the work of a "Mr. X" and called it "stupid." "Mr. X," he said, "encouraged a group of individuals to write the supervisors on the airport question. We went to him and asked him to give the committee an opportunity to get all the facts at no cost to the county but he (Mr. X) said any such report would be biased. If they hadn't been so stupid if (the resolution) might have passed," he declared.

When Supv. Patrick Heenan objected to use of the word "stupid" as out of order, Evans said he was not referring to anyone on the board.

Editor's Note:

Evans' "Mr. X" obviously is Gordon Bubolz, former state senator, chairman of the Citizens Aviation Advisory committee and a strong advocate of the survey.)

Scotland the veteran captain of the battered Finnish freighter Anna still refused to leave his ship — hard aground and in danger of breaking up.

kickbacks from performers willing to refund part of their union-scale fees in return for show spots with publicity value.

Stabile, recently given the job of policing the network operations, said of the kickbacks:

"Although this has been a common practice in the industry, we have reviewed the situation and have issued instructions for the termination of such practices on NBC."

His announcement came hours after a New York Post article disclosed that a Negro choral group, the Clara Ward Singers, had returned to NBC half of a $1,041 salary for each of four TV appearances in the last two years.

The program budget could only cover half the salary, and the singers, aware of the arrangement, agreed to it in advance for the privilege of appearing on the highly-rated "Today" show.

In his letter, Cowan said his boss repeatedly referred to his health, though Cowan had assured him he was in good condition. He had been under treatment for a blood clot in the leg.

Youths Hang Castro Twice in Effigy

New York—A Cuban Premier Fidel Castro was hanged in effigy — twice — last night in midtown Manhattan. The stuffed, life-size figure first was strung on a tree at 49th street and Rockefeller plaza. A few minutes later, guards ripped it down.

A few minutes later, guards found six youths stringing the figure to another tree two blocks away. The guards destroyed the effigy, and the youths scattered.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plates dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little PASTEET, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor breath". Get PASTEET at drug counters everywhere.

Frenzied Welcome for Ike by Indian Crowd

overwhelmed, said he had never seen anything like it. Nor had newsmen who have followed Eisenhower's public appearances since his 1952 election campaign.

Hagerty said it was evident the Indian people went out of their way to show their love for Eisenhower and obviously were making most earnest attempts to be sure the president knew they loved him.

All the way into New Delhi—lit up and glittering like a fairland for the occasion—people pushed and shoved and shouted. When the great crowd halted the motorcade by their force of numbers, many tried to thrust their hands into Eisenhower's car to shake hands with him.

Prime Minister Nehru at times seemed to be emotionally affected by the demonstration.

Strain On President

The long trip from the airport after an early morning take off from Pakistan and a stop in Afghanistan would have been an exhausting experience even for a man of many less than Eisenhower's 69 years. At times he looked tired and a bit ruffled, but the president's firm step and strong voice at the airport indicated he was still able to take the grueling trip in his stride.

"What did you think of that reception?" a reporter called to him as he later stepped from his car, ankle deep in flowers, at the home of Indian President Rajendra Prasad.

"You write it," Eisenhower shot back with a chuckle, apparently at a loss for any descriptive term.

In parliament, just before Eisenhower's arrival, Nehru hailed him as a "messenger of peace," and that was the way the masses of Old and New Delhi accepted him.

No one will ever know exactly how many Indians stood in their dhosis and saris to cheer Eisenhower along an 11-mile route from airport to city. Police guessed the crowd at 1 1/2 million, but it could easily have been larger.

See Warning to China

Many—even the poor illiterates who make up much of this nation's population—must have shared a widespread feeling that Eisenhower's presence at this time was a clear warning to communist China against further action on the India frontier.

Prime Minister Nehru, welcoming Eisenhower from a triumphant 6-hour stopover in Afghanistan, declared that friendship for America had been firmly established in India before his arrival. He said Eisenhower's visit would make this friendship even stronger, more durable and lasting.

"We are grateful to you and to your country for this visit," Nehru declared, his voice filled with emotion.

Eisenhower responded with a pledge that American leaders will stand beside India's leaders in the quest for world peace.

"The Lord willing, that quest will be successful," Eisenhower said. "All of us know the only alternative to global war is peace. Let us pray that even this little step forward may have some useful purpose in furthering this great cause."

India Fifth Stop

Eisenhower came to India, fifth stop on his mission to three continents, from another tumultuous reception in the mountain kingdom of Afghanistan. Crowds estimated at half a million so delayed his progress in Kabul that he was a half an hour late reaching New Delhi.

The president rode into New Delhi from the airport in an open convertible, smiling and waving. The crowds, jammed hundreds deep, sometimes pressed so close there was barely room for the presidential car to pass. Police were forced to beat back excited Indians at the airport with lathis, leather padded sticks.

The Indians had come by bus, car, train and ox cart to the motorcade route, encouraged by Nehru's words to welcome the first U. S. president to visit India as a messenger of peace.

Red Letter Day

Indian radio announcers, describing the vast outpouring of the people, called this "a red letter day in Indian history." They said the welcome was the biggest ever given a foreign visitor.

A brilliant sun shone in a blue sky with only an occasional wispy cloud. The temperature was 69 degrees.

Eisenhower and Nehru stood in the car as it passed through New Delhi's streets. The 75-year-old president of India, Rajendra Prasad, remained seated.

The wall of humanity was so great that it delayed the motorcade, pushing it more than an hour behind schedule.

When the presidential limousine finally reached the government buildings, mounted lancers of the Indian president's bodyguard rode up. The lancers set off at a gallop, with the motorcade following much faster than usual through crowded areas. This apparently was to prevent the crowds from blocking the motorcade further. Nehru, welcoming Eisenhower at New Delhi's Palam airport, told him that his 5-day visit should convince him that India is really engaged in striving for peace.

A crowd of some 20,000 at the airport grounds let loose their roar of applause, drowning out their remarks. Flashing his famous grin, Eisenhower told the airport greeters his arrival in India fulfilled a fervent wish.

After Nehru visited him in Washington in 1956, he said, "I made up my mind, the Lord willing, I would come to India while I was president of the United States."

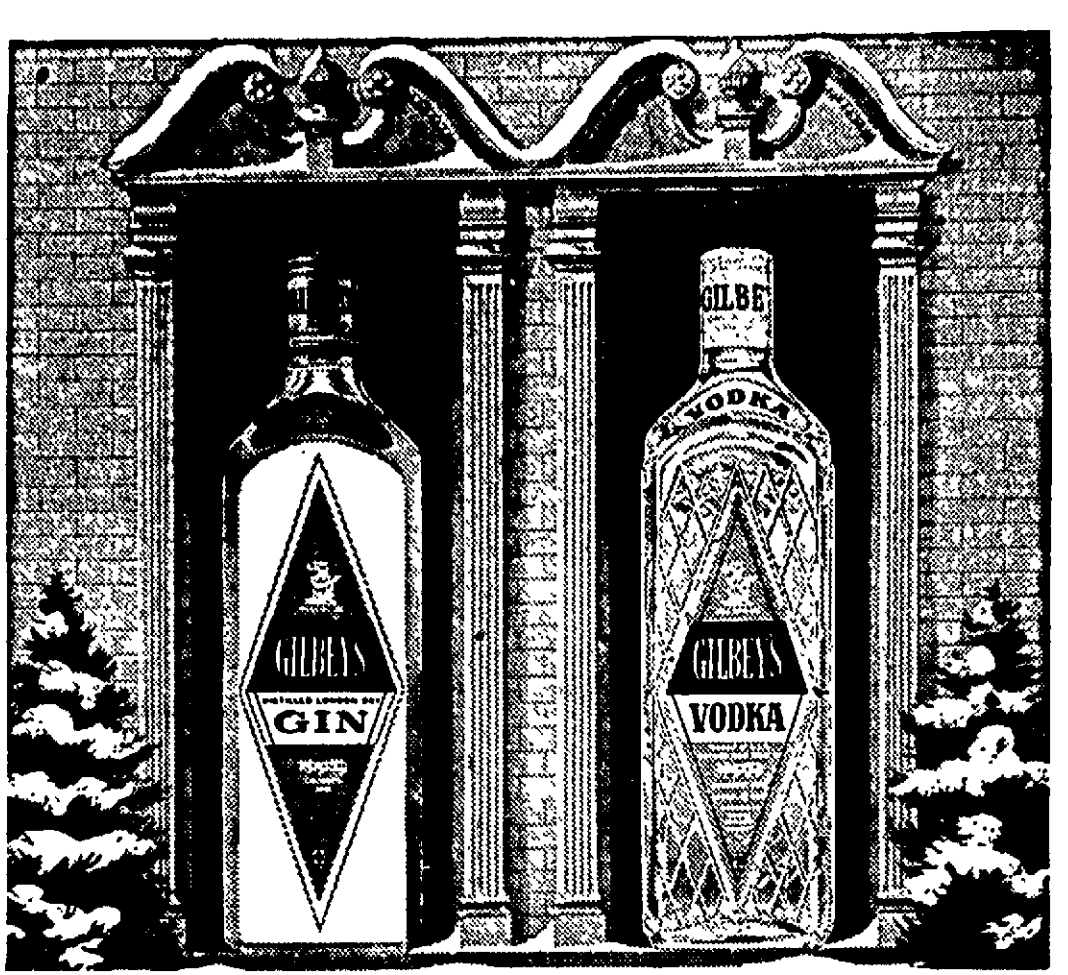

The crowd roared its approval.

Eisenhower was delayed by a hectic welcome from flag-waving, applauding, dancing crowds a few hours earlier during a stop of nearly six hours in Kabul, the capital of Afghanistan.

Nehru, said Eisenhower's visit to India at this time was particularly important because it could well be the turning point for progress in the striving for world peace.

"We welcome you," Nehru said. "We are grateful to your country."

"We are full of gratitude for what you are doing now to help us win our place. I can say that this friendship has been firmly established in this country... you are an instrument for making it stronger, durable, more lasting."

The Farms of Russia—II

State System Expanding at Expense of Collective Plans

BY DICK HANSON

Editor, Successful Farming Magazine

New York — Soviet agricultural production today stems from two vines — the shrinking vine of the collective farm, and the growing vine of the state farm.

I visited both types in about equal numbers during my recent visit to the Soviet Union. There is a sharp difference in organization. Collective farms represent the pooled holdings of formerly independent peasant farmers. On a collective farm, the workers elect a manager to supervise the entire farm. Workers on the collective receive part of their pay in money and part in kind. Also, the collective farm worker receives what is called a household allotment.

The household allotment ranges from about a half acre to three acres. On this land the worker can grow vegetables, keep a cow or two, a sow, goat, anything he wants to raise. He can either feed his family with what he raises or he can sell his produce in the city at the farmer's market and keep the cash. There is still a little "capitalistic incentive" in Soviet agriculture. It is estimated that the total number of collective farms has decreased from more than 250,000 at the beginning of 1950 to 80,000 or 70,000 today. The average sown area per collective increased accordingly. In 1956 it was about 4,500 acres. Today, the average collective is more than 31 times its prewar size. The State farms reportedly contained about 10 per cent of the total sown acreage in the Soviet Union in 1952. In 1957, they contained about 25 per cent of the sown acreage and had increased in number from Production figures depend on people. In Soviet Russia's drive to expand its farm economy, the organization of rural life — and the incentives involved — must play a key role. An American farm expert who recently toured the Soviet Union explores this social setting in the second of four articles on Russian agriculture.

5,740 to almost 6,000. The average size of a state farm is about 60,000 acres.

They Look Alike

Although there is a definite difference in the organizational setup between the state and collective farms, the farms themselves look the same. Living conditions, by American standards, are pathetically low. A 3-room house will shelter four, five, or even six people. Plumbing frequently consists of merely a cold water faucet; more often there is none at all. Many of these houses have electricity which is used strictly for lighting since electrical appliances are high priced and hard to get.

Each farm, however, has a "palace of culture" or meeting house. Here the workers are presented lectures, movies, or radio programs—all government controlled. This is the sum total of leisure time activity available to Soviet farm workers.

I found the people on both types of farms to be very friendly toward Americans. However, it seemed to me that the people on the collective farms were a happier group. I couldn't help but wonder if this wasn't because collective farm workers have more reason to do a good job since the harder they work, the larger their payment in kind can be.

Talking with Soviet farm workers is an enlightening experience. On the average these people have only the haziest idea of what life in the United States is like. I doubt if many of them believed me when I tried to explain our agricultural system.

Although the Soviet government has almost completely guided the mind of the average Soviet citizen, it has created its own problems by doing so. Several times, in the course of conversation with farm workers, there were remarks like this:

"We are told that in your country you have much unemployment with people starving and no place for them to live. We are told that you are dominated by the rich people. Then we are told that we must all work harder and harder so that we can surpass the achievements of people in your country. If conditions in your country are so bad, why should we have to work so hard to beat you?"

Lack Consumer Goods

This line of thinking is probably not common in the Soviet Union today, but it is there. It is a line of thinking that will take a good deal of delicate handling by the Soviet government if it should continue to spread.

Farm workers, as well as city workers, seem to be aware that they are extremely short of consumer goods. They seem to know that if the armament race could be stopped, or at least slowed down, they would benefit by an increase in consumer goods.

GOP May Request Civil War Books Legislative Recess New at Library

Move Could Stalemate Action on Tax Revision, Create Confusion

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Madison — A demand for a recess of the state legislature until late next spring, as a major strategic plan of the Republican senate majority, may be made next week.

The upper house will offer a joint resolution suggesting cessation of legislative deliberations on tax and finance questions until Gov. Nelson's citizens revenue study commission files its report.

The suggested reconvening date in a resolution now being prepared is May 3.

The chances are overwhelming that the Democratic assembly will repudiate such a move, which will lead to a stalemate in the legislative branch of the government similar to the Michigan deadlock.

Skeleton Sessions

Although the Republicans could recess their house, in effect, through skeleton sessions, the Democrats could keep their house in full session if they chose to do so.

Democratic lower house leaders assert they are prepared for a showdown.

"There will be no recess in this house," said Assemblyman Keith Hardie of Jackson county, the Democratic house leader, when asked for his reaction to the Republican plan.

Nelson's Remarks

Gov. Nelson also has said publicly he has assurances from the Democratic representatives in both houses they will fight such a Republican move as partisan obstructionism.

But the Republicans in long caucus deliberations apparently have concluded the plan would be politically acceptable because of popular opposition to Gov. Nelson's plans to levy higher taxes.

They will argue the revenue study commission study was authorized to guide the present legislature on the difficult task of tax revision, and that the legislature is therefore obligated to defer basic tax decisions until its report is available.

With the 100th anniversary of the beginning of the Civil war just around the corner—Fort Sumter surrendered April 14, 1861—armchair Civil war historians are anticipating a boom in historical novels dealing with that period.

Three of the new offerings on the Civil war are on display at the Appleton public library. One of these, "South of Appomattox," by Nash K. Burger and John Butterworth, is not history of the conflict itself, but rather traces the lives of the Confederacy's notable generals and statesmen after the war ended and the Reconstruction began.

Another volume, "Lincoln Finds a General," by Kenneth Williams, is the story of President Lincoln's problems in finding generals to command the army of the Potomac and the department of the Mississippi. Specifically it deals with General U.S. Grant and the reason he was destined to play such an important part in the war.

A third volume, "They Took Their Stand," by Manley W.

Wellman, is the story of the first months of the war told from the standpoint of the Confederacy. It includes the first Battle of Bull Run and the Battle of Wilson's Creek.

Also among the 23 non-fiction selections is a volume by Nobel Prize winner Bertrand Russell, considered by many the outstanding living philosopher.

Russell, author of many philosophy books and collections of essays, traces the history of western philosophy in "Wisdom of the West," a large work containing 500 illustrations, 250 of them in color.

Other new non-fiction includes "Unions and Union Leadership," by Jack Barbash, a study of labor organizations as an influence on individual members; "The Laugh's On Me," by Bennett Cerf, a collection of anecdotes, stories and observations which need only the slightest excuse to be retold; the "Space Handbook," by Robert Buchheim, the story of what and how soon things will develop in the conquest of space.

Humorous Fiction

Those who like to take their reading with a smile will enjoy "The Grand Duke and Mr. Pimm," by Lindsday Hardy. Mr. Pimm is a fascinating man whose business is providing rich women with ideal husbands. Mr. Pimm believes "all one wants in a wife is a

Kimberly Law on Snow Removal to Be Enforced

Kaukauna — Village residents were reminded by Eugene Hietpas, street commissioner, of the ordinance requiring walks to be cleared of snow within 24 hours after a snow fall.

Several complaints were lodged against violators in early snows this fall, said Hietpas, and hereafter walks will be watched closely to make sure the ordinance is upheld.

Village crews will move in to shovel walks when violations are noted and property owners will be assessed three cents per foot for clearing.

Steel Strike Has Indirect Effect On Job Picture

Twin City Employment Drop Greater Than That Anticipated

Neenah — The steel strike has had an indirect effect on employment in the Twin Cities resulting in a greater decrease in job opportunities than anticipated two months ago, A. P. Engbreton, manager of the state employment service office here, stated today in his bi-monthly market letter.

A seasonal employment decline from the mid-summer peak, starting early in September and continuing to at least mid-November, is normal for this area, he stated.

Marathon Sets Annual Party For Children

Two Showings of 'Pinocchio' Slated For Dec. 19 Event

Menasha — Marathon division of American Can company will be host to approximately 2,000 children of Neenah-Menasha employees at the 17th annual children's Christmas party at the Menasha High school auditorium Saturday, Dec. 19.

Santa Claus will be on hand to distribute gifts and greet the children from 4 through 10 years of age.

Another highlight of the 1959 party will be a performance of "Pinocchio" by the Reed Marionette company of Delevan. The puppet play is presented in 15 scenes on the Reed's portable stage with many legitimate stage effects in miniature.

Plan Two Performances — Because of the large number of children expected, two performances are planned. Marathon children are being divided into two groups, half attending in the morning and half in the afternoon. Doors will open for the morning party at 8:30 a.m. and for the afternoon party at 1:30 p.m.

Tut Grode is general chairman for the party. Assisting will be Bill Wood and Gordon Altenhofen for ticket printing and distribution, Edith Foth and Lorraine Asmus for refreshments, George Vogel for gift purchases, Laurence Kitchen for candy and gift distribution. Bob Fast and Paul Mueller for entertainment, Henry Bickerstaff for publicity, Dwight Plucker for safety and traffic, and Frank Staniak, Jr., for storage and transportation.

Papers have been issued to Joseph F. Rippl, both seeking the Fourth ward aldermanic post now held by Edward Stinski, and Emil J. Pader, incumbent Fifth ward supervisor. Pawlowski was defeated last spring in his reelection bid by Louis Gamme. Rippl is a retired police captain, making his first political try.

"While the decline from mid-July to mid-September was somewhat below the figure anticipated, the decline from mid-September to mid-November greatly exceeded the total anticipated two months ago."

The 42 Twin cities establishments reporting labor market information to the state employment service office showed a decrease of 196 workers during this 2-month period, while a decrease of only 63 was forecast two months ago.

Paper Industry Drop — A decline of 110 employees was reported by representative firms in the paper industry, which was double the total expected. The decline was noted in all industry groups reporting, but the bulk of the decrease was in the manufacturing field.

Other manufacturing firms which had not anticipated a decrease reported an employment decline of 67 workers.

"While none of this decline can be directly attributed to the prolonged steel strike, it appears that much of it can be indirectly traced to this cause. Many firms reported reductions in their orders because the business of a number of their customers had been curtailed because of the actual or anticipated steel shortages," he said.

Above Last Year — In spite of the decline, Engbreton noted, total employment reported by these establishments remained 300 higher than a year ago, continuing the normal trend of slow

Safety Council to View Traffic Problem

State, National Council Field Representatives to Take Part

Neenah — Traffic safety, the safety council may do to will be stressed at the Twin City Industrial Safety council's fourth dinner meeting Wednesday, Dec. 16, at Germania hall, beginning at 6:30 p.m.

The program has been arranged by Robert Wood and his traffic safety committee with the assistance of Robert Gillette of the Wisconsin Council of Safety. Reservations are to be made by Thursday with Dan Danielson, Neenah Vocational and Adult school director and safety council secretary.

Robert Sorensen, field representative of the National Safety Council at Chicago, will serve as chairman for the program and Edward F. Pazdera, plant security officer of the Hamilton Manufacturing company at Two Rivers and former chief of police for Two Rivers, will show a film on "The Wisconsin Traffic Picture."

The movie gives a preview of traffic conditions 10 years hence, and steps being taken now to reduce the two major elements in all traffic problems — accidents and congestion. It also shows the stake business and industry have in the safe and efficient movement of people and products.

Traffic Program — Gordon May, field representative of the safety division of the state motor vehicle department, will talk on "A Traffic Program for Your Community." He will discuss the traffic problems in each community, based on community traffic inventory studies. He will outline what, in his opinion, are the most important problems and what

Neenah May Test Different Meters

Neenah — The use of manually operated parking meters on a 90-day trial basis is being recommended by the public protection committee to the common council.

The committee Tuesday night decided to recommend use of the manually-operated meters on W. Wisconsin avenue for half of the block between S. Commercial and Church streets.

It was thought these might not be affected as much by weather conditions as the present type. The recommendation will be presented to the council next Wednesday night.

Neenah School Pupil Testing Expanding

Additional Ability, Aptitude Measuring Begun This Year

Neenah — Results of tests taken earlier this fall were issued by Neenah public school teachers in conference held with parents Tuesday. Under the direction of Dr. Donald Scott, curriculum coordinator for the Neenah system, the testing program has been expanded this year.

Every fall an extensive testing program is held throughout the school system to determine mental ability or IQ as well as basic skill achievements.

The IQ tests given are those of science research associates, and are given to first graders, fourth graders and seventh graders to find the primary mental abilities. This test is broken into vocabulary, reasoning, perception and number work.

From that is derived a score comparable to the IQ. At the first grade level, it is hoped the results will enable grouping for reading purposes.

9th Graders — Ninth graders participate in a statewide intelligence testing program secured from the University of Wisconsin to see how they compare to requirements Spoo, Neenah High school guidance director, administrators that test which is taken by about 90 per cent of the schools in the state.

Another type of test given this year is known as the Iowa test of basic skills. Previously, only the arithmetic part of this battery of tests was given. The test this year includes checking the aptitude and achievement in such basic skills as vocabulary, reading comprehension, language skills, spelling, punctuation, capitalization and usage, work study skills, map reading, graphs and tables, use of reference materials, and arithmetic skills.

The 41-hour series is not given all at one time but is spread out over four days. Answers are put onto special sheets which are sent to the University of Iowa for machine scoring. The results are sent back in terms of grade equivalents.

The teachers then convert these to percentiles for their own grade purposes. These scores also give the teacher a chance to compare the status of her pupils with the national averages.

Compare Nationally — The child can be compared thus to others in the room and the Neenah system can be compared to the national norms. The results of the Iowa battery of tests also give the teacher a chance to diagnose areas in which children are having trouble, Dr. Scott indicated.

At the high school level scholastic aptitude or ability tests were given to 128 juniors and seniors to give the seniors a chance to see how they measure up to requirements for available scholarships and

The mayor has been undergoing a physical checkup and his treatments the last week. Theda Clark Memorial hospital. He is expected to be released by the end of this week.

Papers have been issued to Walter C. Pawlowski and Joseph F. Rippl, both seeking the Fourth ward aldermanic post now held by Edward Stinski, and Emil J. Pader, incumbent Fifth ward supervisor. Pawlowski was defeated last spring in his reelection bid by Louis Gamme. Rippl is a retired police captain, making his first political try.

but steady growth which has characterized this area for years.

In face of decreasing employment during the last two months, the demand for workers has been largely for replacement of normal turnover and consequently somewhat lower than during the previous summer months.

The demand, as reflected by new openings received by the district WSES office, shows that exclusive of agricultural, domestic and short-time openings, 301 new openings were received in October and November, as compared with 406 received in August and September and 271 during October and November of last year.

Exceptions to the demand for turnover replacement are the demand for professional staff, technical personnel by manufacturers and a demand for retail sales personnel for the staffing of new facilities. With stable employment expected for the next few months, the demand probably will remain low until at least March or April.

The downward trend in the supply of workers which has been evident since July was slightly reversed by a small increase in November. Current registrations on file in the district WSES office rose from 651 at the end of September to 702 at the end of November.

The increased supply was entirely among men, largely resulting from seasonal layoffs of construction and other outdoor workers. An increase in the available supply was noted in nearly all age brackets and the increased supply was made up of local workers. The number of non-residents of the area who are registered dropped from 328 to 269.

Also reduced, from 296 to 169, was the number of employed workers seeking a change in employment or supplementary work.

Boat Law Explanation Session Abounds in Caustic Comments

BY JOHN MORGAN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Menasha — Amid shouts of "dictators" and "reds," referring to the state conservation department, Warden Albert Dunham Tuesday explained aspects of the new state boat registration law.

Although the meeting in Germania hall was called by the Twin City Rod and Gun club for explanation of the law, it soon turned into near-bedlam when some men shouted personal attacks on Dunham. It resembled a legislative public hearing, with grips flying.

The meeting was open to the public. Many others, besides club members, were in the hall.

Club Pres. John Britke several times gaveled the noisemakers to order, saying "Some of us came here to hear the regulations. I'd like to ask those who don't want to hear about them to leave."

One man left, shouting a question about how free this country is and vowing not to register his boat.

One Has No Boat

Another heckler in the crowd enjoyed his exploits, which were climaxed by his admission he has no boat.

One man was told the legislature passed the boat registration law. He retorted: "The cluding: Four classes — Class A, under 16-foot length; Class 1, 16 to under 26 feet; Class 2, 26 to under 40 feet; and Class 3, 40 feet and above.

Enforcement will be by the conservation department. The law goes into effect April 1. Application forms will be available soon at all sporting goods stores and through the county conservation department office.

Boats now registered with the coast guard do not have to be registered with the state.

Each boat must carry a life jacket for each person aboard. Power boats must carry fire extinguishers capable of quelling a gasoline fire. Lights are required for night operations.

Boats may be boarded by any conservation officer to check equipment and registration papers, which must be aboard. Officers may request but not order, owners of overloaded boats to shore to lighten load.

Boat numbers are assigned by the department. Owners must attach the numerals and letters designated on the bow topsides, in characters at least 3 inches high. When a boat is sold, the number stays with the former owner, as with car licenses. (On racing scow sailboats, Dunham said he believed the numbers will have to be painted on the foredeck. Numbers on the topsides under the deck would not be readable. The regulation is not specific about the location.)

Dunham reminded those affected to paint their names and addresses on ice fishing shanties, as law requires. Fictitious name and address users, he promised, will be prosecuted. Penciled signs are not suitable.

Propose Immediate Work on Pool Filters

Menasha Board Urges City Government To Prevent Spring Opening Delay

Menasha — Immediate action to prevent delay in reopening the municipal swimming pool was urged by a letter to Mayor R. G. DuCharme from the city council and City Atty.

William R. Giese. The park and recreation board Monday requested that the board urge needed changes in the pool's filter system be made while Bros. remove their carp fish the pool is not operating. The changes, including installation of screens to prevent hair from entering the filters, will result in lower expenses for water, electricity and diatomaceous earth, the filters straining and cleaning material.

Park Supt. Harry Kargus requested that the board urge the city council to have Cole Bros. remove their carp fish boats usually moor in a slip in Jefferson park. Ice Rinks Kargus told the board ice skating rinks will be operating in Sixth street, Seventh street, Racine, Smith and Garfield parks this winter. Warming sheds and caretakers will be at Sixth, Seventh and Racine parks. At the Jan. 4 meeting, the board will establish policies and will give further study to an ordinance prohibiting the use of city parks for carnivals. City Atty. Giese will be invited to the meeting for his help in drafting the ordinance, originally proposed by the board last summer after several carnivals had torn up turf in Jefferson park.

Recreation Director Robert Vanevenhoven outlined the holiday recreation program, to run from Dec. 21 to 31. He reported on attendance last month at the Wisconsin Recreation association convention at Green Lake.

Riesel Blasts Labor Racket 'Government'

Columnist Hits Hoffa at Banquet in Green Bay

Post-Crescent News Service

Green Bay — Labor columnist Victor Riesel, a fiery little man with an impassioned message, told the Green Bay Traffic club Wednesday night that this country has a second government comprised of the "criminal conspiracy" which has invaded part of the American labor movement.

Possibly tailoring his speech to 540 men in the transportation fields at the club's 27th annual dinner, Riesel directed his fire at James Hoffa's leadership of the Teamsters union. Earlier, at a press conference, he discussed the labor picture and the political outlook in broader terms.

At the press conference, Riesel listed what he regarded as the top news stories of 1960:

Steel Strike

The steel dispute, in which he predicted there would be a settlement before the expiration of the anti-strike injunction;

The railroad labor dispute, which he forecast would be settled without a strike;

And the presidential campaign, in which he said labor leadership will play a key role. He said Hoffa has mobilized his teamsters to defeat Sen. John Kennedy (D-Mass) in Wisconsin, should he enter next April's primary and have opposition. "Not that Hoffa has any great regard for Humphrey," he said, "but he wants to prove he can use his power as a political weapon."

Praised Older Leaders

Riesel made clear that his quarrel was not with the American labor movement, but with the corrupt leadership which has infiltrated some portions of it. "Unfortunately, criticism of one labor leader is regarded as a criticism of all," he declared.

Riesel praised such elder labor statesmen as AFL-CIO president George Meany, David Dubinsky of the garment workers, and John L. Lewis of the miners. "Who takes over the labor leadership for them in the future?" he asked. "What guarantees do we have that the hoodlum element — mostly men in their 40's — will not assume that leadership?"

He discussed the power labor leaders have gained through administration of pension and welfare funds. "Because businessmen have abdicated the responsibility for administration of such funds, control of them has gone to labor bosses," he declared.

"Hoffa and others of his breed are surrounded by left-wingers — and I mean far to the left," he declared. "It's a powerful combination of muscle and money, and it must be beaten."

Symington Winner?

When questioning veered to politics, Riesel said he believed Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo) would win the presidential nomination, with Humphrey and Kennedy "neutralizing each other." He commented that Vice President Nixon is "far ahead," as most people believe, and that New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller may decide to "run for 1964."

Asked what should be done about remedial legislation should the steel strike resume, Riesel said he would advocate special legislation giving the president power to continue the injunction, but providing that any benefits eventually won should be retroactive.

Pipeline Milking Topic Of Final Farm Short Course

Oshkosh — Pipeline milkers and milking arrangements were discussed at Tuesday night's farm building short course meeting which brought to a close the series of four educational sessions on farm building problems.

Speaking to the group, which met at the Wisconsin Public Service corporation meeting room here, was Myron Bean of the University of Wisconsin's Dairy Industry division. He outlined the use of a pipeline milker which can be cleaned in place rather than dismantled for cleaning.

He spoke of the interest of dairymen in this type of milking operation as well as the various types and maintenance requirements.

Oshkosh Council OK's Swimming Pool Plans

Bids to be Taken in Spring, Engineer, Architect Expect; Near New High School

Oshkosh — Preliminary plans for Pollock Memorial pool have been approved by the Oshkosh common council. Bids will be taken for construction of the pool and its filtration plant next year.

Final plans for the pool to be constructed adjacent to the city's new high school will be ready early next spring, Hugh M. McClure, Chicago swimming pool engineer, and Theodore H. Irion, Oshkosh architect, have told the council.

The L-shaped pool and sun deck area are designed to accommodate 1,320 persons at a time. The pool, which is 165 feet long, will provide eight Olympic standard 50-meter lanes. The widest part of the pool will provide eight American standard lanes of 25 yards.

Diving Area

Two 1-meter and one 3-meter diving boards will occupy a corner at the deep end of the pool, which will run from 3 1/2 feet to 12 feet in depth. The filtration plant will be housed under the diving platform.

A maximum of 840 swimmers can be accommodated in the pool which has a surface area of 10,496 square feet.

Fenced off from the main pool is a 60 by 90 foot pool for beginners, with depths from 2 to 3 1/2 feet. This pool will accommodate 480 swimmers.

A splash pool and sandbox for small children is also fenced off from the main pool.

Dressing Rooms

Dressing room wings extend one-quarter block on each side of the main entrance. These will be roofless. Access to the 90 by 96 foot sun deck is gained from the dressing rooms. A small food concession is planned adjacent to the deck and eating and smoking will be allowed only in the area around the concession stand.

Portable bleachers set up outside the fenced-in pools will be utilized during swimming meets.

Details of exterior construction have not been completed.

Chuters Open League Play On Thursday

St. John Entertains Premontre Cadets In Catholic Loop

Little Chute — St. John High school will open Fox Valley Catholic conference action Thursday night by entertaining Premontre of Green Bay.

Premontre has already dropped two league games while this will be the first taste of loop competition for the Dutchmen.

The Chuters have split in a pair of non-league games by losing to Wayland academy and Wausau Newman and then posting victories over Assumption of Wisconsin Rapids and Fox Valley Lutheran of Appleton.

6-4 Last Season

Last season, St. John finished with a 6-4 conference record for third place. In games with Premontre, the Dutchmen split. The Cadets won the game at Green Bay 57 to 54 and St. John reversed the decision with a 60 to 51 triumph here.

Premontre has dropped league games to Marinette Catholic Central and St. Mary's Menasha. The lone win of the season for the Cadets came over Sturgeon Bay while other losses have been to Newman of Wausau, Racine St. Catherine and Green Bay West.

Coach Bill Fitzpatrick of St. John will probably go along with the starting lineup he has used in the two successive victories.

This shows Mike Bongers and Andy Ebben at guards, Harley Hietpas at center and Ed Hammen and Tom Verhagen at forwards. Roy Vandenberg 'is the number one replacement at the forward spot and Dave Kous has been seeing action at center.

Other Chuter reserves include Tom Lamers, Bob Dledrich, Jerome Dietrich, Joe Verkuilen and Ken Dietrich.

School Board to Study District Consolidation

Board of Education Members Refuse Pay Hike Approved for 1960 by Council

Kaukauna—Consolidation of the Combined Locks school district and the Kaukauna school district will be discussed at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday after the board of education set up a meeting with Combined Locks officials at Tuesday's meeting.

Combined Locks will be annexed to a high school district before 1962 and the logical choices are either Kimberly or Kaukauna. Village officials will meet with representatives of both communities to find which would be most advantageous to Combined Locks students and residents.

The board almost entered into the controversy on replacing the city nurse when T. H. Boebel, superintendent of schools, told the board he had been approached to ascertain his feelings on the necessity of a school nurse. Robert Main and Dr. George Behnke, board of health members also on the school board, pointed out the difficulty the board has been having in reaching agreement with the council on how the city nurse situation should be handled.

Marshall Bayargeon, board president, questioned Boebel as to whether the board's opinion or the superintendent's was needed on the school nurse issue. The board of education has good relations with the council and

Kimberly Board OKs Record 1960 Budget

Tax Rate Hiked $3 Enabling Raising of $411,367 Levy; Budget Totals $666,134

Kimberly — A record budget for 1960 of $666,134, up $76,464 over 1959 and calling for a peak tax levy of $411.367 compared to $375,762 in 1959 was approved at a special meeting of the village board Tuesday night.

The tax rate was increased from $39 to $42 per $1,000 of assessed valuation to bring in $35,605 of the budget increase. The balance will come from an increase of $59,363 in revenues from all sources except property taxes from $160,170 in 1959 to $219,533 in 1960. Assessed valuation is $9,794,445 compared to $9,634,933 last year.

The village anticipates a surplus of $35,234 in the general fund to start 1960 compared to a $53,738 surplus in 1959.

Major Breakdowns

The budget for school accounts for 44 per cent of the $666,134 total or 70 per cent of the $42 tax rate. From every $42 the school will get $29.40, the county $9.27, the state .58 cents and the village $2.75.

The tax rate hike is the first in Kimberly since 1953 when taxes were increased from $36 to $39 per $1,000. Operation of schools in 1960 will cost $292,500 compared to $228,700 in 1959. Operation of the public school accounts for $60,500 of the $63,800 increase, reflecting increased costs for teachers and maintenance of the larger school building.

Six first grade teachers had to be added to the staff as the parochial school eliminated this grade. Operation of the vocational school remained at $3,500 both years, but vocational state and federal aid grants were increased from $2,200 to $3,000 in 1960. The recreation program, operated by the school, will cost $10,500 in 1960 compared to $8,000 in 1959 due to the growth of the community and the demand for supervision at more neighborhood play areas.

State and county taxes in 1960 amount to $98,839 compared to $95,193 in 1959. Highway and Service garage costs for 1960 are set at $58,838 compared to $58,150 in 1959. Outlays for 1960 total $51,800 in 1960 compared to $57,625 in 1959. The village purchased a large grader this year to account for the major difference in outlay costs.

Other Budgets

Protection of persons and property will cost $39,220 in 1960 compared to $37,165 in 1959 reflecting salary increases for police and firemen. Conservation of health jumped from $28,510 in 1959 to $32,770 in 1960. Garbage disposal labor costs show an increase of $3,600 and dump ground rental increased $300 per year.

Village indebtedness payments in 1960 amount to $28,062 compared to $28,587 in 1959. General government will cost $26,654 in 1960 compared to $23,639 in 1959.

Unclassified account for 1960 shows it will cost $21,350 compared to $19,500 in 1959. Weed destruction is expected to cost $800, a $550 increase; employe and Blue Cross insurance is expected to increase $1,000 in 1960 and civic welfare is expected to cost $300 more in 1960.

Money appropriated for library, parks and music during 1960 amounts to $16,100 compared to $12,600 in 1959. Park expenses account for $2,900 of the increase while library salaries and expenses account for the majority of the remainder.

Estimated Receipts

Estimated receipts in 1960 show state income tax amounting to $130,000 compared to $85,000 in 1959; state highway privilege tax up from $12,000 to $15,000; state power and gas utility tax up from $4,500 to $10,000; state telephone tax up from $3,000 to $3,500; street tax up from $4,000 to $5,000; unclassified up from $2,500 to $3,500; state

The board agreed to study the feasibility of taking out a school from $2,200 to $3,000, vandalism and malicious mischief insurance due to the rash of school vandalism being reported from other cities these days. The City Basketball league was authorized to use the high school gym.

plumbing, gas and building permits are estimated at $1,500 for 1960 compared to $1,000 in 1959 and bicycle licenses are expected to bring in $350 compared to $50 in 1959.

Receipts estimated the same both years are fire insurance premium refund, $500; tavern and class A licenses, $995; cigarette licenses, $100; dog licenses, $500; fines, $1,200; interest on water works equity, $15,000, and water department expense refund, $15,000.

Receipts for grading and graveling streets is expected to be $60 in 1960 compared to $795 in 1959, sidewalk assessments are expected to bring in $160 compared to $430 in 1959, and Grade A milk licenses are expected to bring in $440 in 1960 compared to $500 in 1959.

Guidance Clinic Will be Legal

Attorney Sends Agreement to County, Awaits Legal Opinion

A proposed agreement between Outagamie county and the Community Guidance center today was handed Corporation Counsel Raymond Dohr. The final agreement will be a legal one, guidance center officials said today.

The agreement may be changed after the attorney general's office rules on a similar Dane county agreement now under consideration. This agreement probably will become the model for other counties, since no legal test of the combined private - municipal guidance centers has been tried.

Commenting on the legality of the county's appropriation for the guidance clinic, Appleton attorney David Bliss, one of the clinic's leaders, said today, "The guidance center is not 'illegal' as may be inferred from previous statements."

"It is a non-profit corporation organized under the laws of Wisconsin and has a tax-free status under federal income tax laws."

New State Law
(The Post-Crescent Tuesday carried an article which stated that the county could not legally give money to a private organization operating a clinic, according to a Sheboygan county ruling.)

Bliss explained, "Passage of senate bill number two by the present legislature provides for the operation of a community guidance center by a private corporation which can be eligible for the 40 per cent grant-in-aid program. That is, the state will reimburse the center 40 cents for every $1 spent on an operating budget. The proposed agreement provides that the Outagamie guidance center shall make applications for aid under this program."

"Five previous opinions of the attorney general make it unmistakably clear that a county board of supervisors does not have the legislative authority to appropriate a lump sum of money as a charitable donation. These opinions have been considered in

Two Fined for Topsy Driving

New London, Fond du Lac Men Lose Licenses

One motorist was found guilty and another admitted his guilt when their cases involving drunken driving were heard in Oshkosh and Waupaca courts.

Bobbie D. Buskirk, 20, route 3, New London, was fined $150 by Waupaca Justice George Whalen after he pleaded guilty. Buskirk was arrested by state police early Sunday morning on Highway 45 near Bear Creek corners. Police said the youth passed the squad car on a curve and forced another vehicle off the road.

He registered .20 on the breathalyzer. A reading of .15 is considered evidence of intoxication.

Edward J. Dempsey, 20, Fond du Lac, was found guilty of drunken driving by Municipal Judge S. J. Luchsinger after trial in Oshkosh. He was fined $100.

U. S. Recovers, Economist Declares

Bases Optimistic View on U. S. History of Recession Recovery

BY JACK GLASNER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

The remarkable ability of the United States economy to rebound from the three recessions experienced since the end of World War II was cited as a basis for an optimistic look at the next 10 years by Dr. Arthur R. Uppgren, professor of economics at Macalester college, St. Paul, Minn., Tuesday.

He spoke at the Conway hotel before the combined Appleton service clubs forum meeting sponsored by the Appleton Chamber of Commerce.

Each recession — in 1949, 1953 and last year — has been shorter than the last, although this can't be taken as a trend, and the rebound of the economy has been from 2 1/2 to 4 1/2 times the loss during the recession, Dr. Uppgren pointed out.

Stabilizers in U.S.

The recessions have not been serious dents in the national economy, the economist pointed out, with the 1949 recession dropping the gross national product 3 1/2 per cent, the 1953 dip cutting it 2 1/2 per cent and the latest one dropping the GNP 3 1/2 per cent.

The reasons for this remarkable bounce-back, Uppgren explained, are the stabilizers, the shock absorbers built into the economy. During each recession except the last, consumption of the public has increased, he noted. During the last dip in the economy, consumption dropped only $9 of a billion, or about 3 per cent of the total.

He blamed the drop in 1957 consuming wholly on the tremendous 1956 sales of seven million cars, which cut the next year's buying power through 1956 installment buying.

One Stabilizer

He pointed out that although the gross national product dropped $17 billion in 1957, income dropped only $2 billion. What happened, he explained, is income and consumption levels actually did not drop in the way production did. Production dropped, but consumption continued with the liquidation of inventories. When inventories were liquidated, demand pushed production up. The momentum of wage increases throughout the postwar period did not slacken, he maintained.

This momentum of wage increases is one of the U.S. economy stabilizers, he declared. He pointed out that industry tended to cut its plant and equipment investments in 1957 and industry must be persuaded not to do this or one of the built-in stabilizers will not work.

He predicted the gross national product, which hit a record $300 billion in 1950, a new record $400 billion in 1955, will reach $600 billion by 1960's first quarter.

Installment Buying

With this, the economist pointed out that the average family income (which usual-gren explained, are the stabilizers, the shock absorbers built into the economy. During each recession except the last, consumption of the public has increased, he noted. During the last dip in the economy, consumption dropped only $9 of a billion, or about 3 per cent of the total.

He blamed the drop in 1957 consuming wholly on the tremendous 1956 sales of seven million cars, which cut the next year's buying power through 1956 installment buying.

One Stabilizer

He pointed out that although the gross national product dropped $17 billion in 1957, income dropped only $2 billion. What happened, he explained, is income and consumption levels actually did not drop in the way production did. Production dropped, but consumption continued with the liquidation of inventories. When inventories were liquidated, demand pushed production up. The momentum of wage increases throughout the postwar period did not slacken, he maintained.

This momentum of wage increases is one of the U.S. economy stabilizers, he declared. He pointed out that industry tended to cut its plant and equipment investments in 1957 and industry includes more than one planned, include an inventory come producer) was about $4,000 in 1945, $5,000 in 1950 and hit $6,620 last year. He predicted the average family income would be $7,200 by 1965 and $8,200 by 1970.

This income rise, he added, means business will prosper more rapidly than the income rise would indicate. The average American family needs about $4,000 for subsistence and anything over that goes for the type of goods characterized by installment buying, thus multiplying the consumption level.

The way to balance the budget, Uppgren declared, is through economic recovery, since any additional taxes repress industry.

Tax Cuts

Pointing out that housing starts dropped 93 per cent in the 1929 to 1933 period, the economist explained that Congress after each recession has passed a more liberal federal loan guarantee bill. While 40 per cent down was required in 1932, requirements today range from a modest down payment to nothing at all. And still the delinquency rate during the 1957-1958 recession on GI housing (no money down) was 1.43 per cent, while in 1932 foreclosures were common, he declared.

If defense expenditures should be cut, there would be no drop in the economy, he declared. With the drop in defense spending, taxes could be cut and consumers would buy more, he explained.

Things which would mar this rosy outlook, Uppgren explained, include an inventory liquidation, but this contains the seeds of recovery, since it levers up production; failure of industry to spend for plants and equipment, and a running out of the supply money.

As for a recommendation, Uppgren wryly commented that by then he would be 70, retired and young economists needed some problems on which to work.

Advance Fee Gyp Regulation Begun

BY LOUIS J. LEFKOWITZ
Atty. General, State of New York

More than $50,000,000 every year is lost by property owners and the real estate industry as a result of the advance fee racket.

This scheme is aimed at homeowners, farmers, ranchers and the owners of hardware stores, taverns, motels and other small businesses who are interested in selling their properties.

It is promoted by high pressure salesmen who claim to have buyers for properties, when all they really do is list the properties and business opportunities for sale in a catalog.

Victims are told by salesmen that because they have contracts with thousands of licensed real estate agents and brokers the property can be quickly sold. The salesmen induce the potential seller to pay for this service in advance—hence the name, advance fee.

A very tricky contract is in-involved. The only guarantee in the contract is the property will be listed in a catalog. These confidence men merely advertise the properties. They have no prospects for the property. But they induce their victims to part with thousands of dollars.

The catalogs have never received wide distribution, and the so-called sure prospects are often no more than persons to whom the directories are mailed.

Typical of such an operation were the practices of Trans-Continental Clearing House, Inc., which has been ordered by the federal trade commission to stop using deception to obtain advance fees for advertising real estate, and to stop failing to make promised refunds when it fails to sell the property.

Trans-Continental was charged with misleading many would-be sellers of small businesses into paying it large advance fees falsely claiming that:

1. It had prospective buyers available who were interested in purchasing the specific property;
2. The property would be sold as a result of its efforts;
3. The property was underpriced and the asking price should have been raised;
4. The listing fee was merely an advance on the selling commission and would be refunded if the property was not sold within a year.

Investigation by the federal trade commission in this case disclosed the price hike was recommended simply to provide an excuse for increasing the fee, which ranged from $150 to more than $1,000. Evidence obtained by the commission also revealed that Trans-Continental seldom succeeded in selling listed properties, and refunded the fee only in rare instances.

The extent to which the public has been victimized is indeed staggering. Investigations conducted have revealed promoters of one advance fee operation sold approximately $35,000 of advertising space just to New York state residents in a single month.

Need Action
An inquiry discloses that on a nationwide basis more than $50,000,000 has been taken annually by the advance fee racket.

The racket has been the subject of an extensive investigation by a permanent subcommittee of the senate committee on government operations. Local enforcement agencies, under the present statutes, are unable to cope with the problem. The federal trade commission has taken aggressive action.

In New York state this year the legislature enacted a law to regulate and control the publications of advance fee agents.

This new law provides no solicitation of such advertising can be made in New York state unless "the publisher shall first file with the secretary of state a full statement of fees, form of contracts, and complete information as to names, addresses and criminal records, if any, of all persons connected with the publication." Under the law, the secretary of state is empowered to deny permission for solicitation of the advertising if it is found the organization is engaging in fraudulent practices.

This new legislation should provide an effective weapon against the advance fee racket — and it will may be a model for other states. In the meantime, your most effective weapon against the advance fee racket is knowledge that it exists and determination not to be victimized by it.

Happy Wife

"...Can you tell from his writing what a wonderful person he is and what a perfect husband for me? Does my 'good girl' handwriting fit in with the happy picture?"

Though intelligent and capable, your husband needs the kind of gentle approval and encouragement that is second nature to you. He has many hidden complexes and anxieties, according to his rather awkward, left-slanted script.

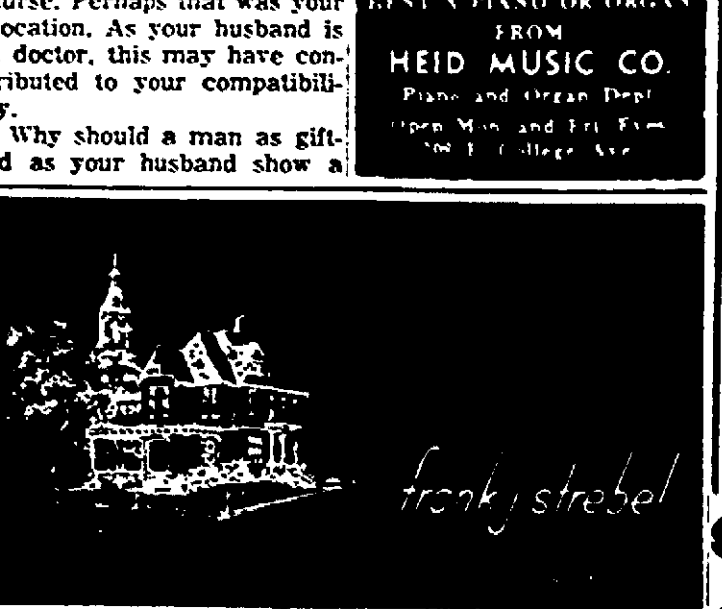

His low, entangled capital "I" (hardly as high as the small letters) indicates a repressed ego. He feels inwardly insignificant and unimportant, no matter what he accomplishes.

Your own writing reveals level-headed competence in the small-sized, rounded, careful letters. You have excellent qualities for a good nurse. Perhaps that was your vocation. As your husband is a doctor, this may have contributed to your compatibility.

Why should a man as gifted as your husband show a

The 50th Wedding Anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Forter of Wichita, Kan., was celebrated last evening when the couple travelled to Appleton to be guests at a reception given by their daughter, Prof. Elizabeth Forter, of the Lawrence college faculty. The party was held at the home of Prof. and Mrs. Ben Ross Schneider, Jr., 1212 E. Pacific street. From the left are Mrs. H. F. Hackworthy, Miss Forter and the senior Forters.

Longest Wed Pair Observe 81st Anniversary

Fairview, Utah — Friday is the 81st wedding anniversary for Peter and Celestia Peterson, who are believed to have been married longer than any other living couple in the nation.

He's 99 years old, she'll be 99 the 28th of this month.

They credit their long and happy life to "plain living and the strong support of the gospel."

The southern Utah couple took wedding vows Dec. 11, 1878, at the nearby St. George temple of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints.

They've lived all their lives in or near Fairview. He was a farmer until he was 82.

Seven of their 10 sons and daughters are still living.

Friday's anniversary will be spent quietly in their home. Neither is feeling too well but Mrs. Peterson says her home is always open to friends and relatives.

Mrs. Oscar Meyer To Head Guild

The Altar guild of All Saints' Episcopal church elected Mrs. Oscar Meyer as its directress Monday evening at a meeting held in the church parlors.

Mrs. Robert Ochiltree was named assistant directress and Miss Laura Hehne secretary-treasurer.

After the elections the Rev. Carl Wilke addressed the group. Mrs. Robert Ochiltree and Mrs. Walter Ochiltree were hostesses.

She Makes a Habit of Letting Her Hair Down

Chicago — Sculptor and was rather wild, cool and Fiore de Henriques demands the attention of her audience one to discipline me. I saw when she speaks. If she doesn't get it, she may toss clay at an unattentive listener, burst into an Italian aria, light a cigar, pour a Scotch and water or give out with some colorful language.

"I'm just being myself," she says. "As soon as they realize that we get a long fine."

Fiore, now on a speaking tour in this country, has been a sculptor of note for years, but didn't rate public attention until she lifted television comedian Jack Paar off his feet on one of his shows.

Uninhibited
"Before that they wouldn't let me in anywhere," she says. "Now I've had to lift the postman and a taxi driver wanted me to pick him up." She doesn't mind what people say of her actions: "This is what I am exactly. If I tried to be this way it wouldn't come off."

Fiore, 38, calls London home, but has a studio in New York city and a foundry in Naples, Italy, where she casts her clay renderings into bronze.

After running away from home as a child, she dived into the Venetian canal from a bridge 42 feet above the water for silver coins.

Second Annual Event

Eight Young Women to be Presented At Butte des Morts Coronet Ball

The second annual Coronet ball to introduce daughters of club members will be staged Dec. 27 at Butte des Morts Golf club. The formal presentation tradition was begun last year on the same date when five young women received jeweled coronets from the club president.

Participating in BDM's Coronet ball are eight presentees; Miss Carolyn Balliet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Balliet, 508 S. Memorial drive; Bonnie Mae Barlow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. John Barlow, 178 River drive; Barbara Jean Crabb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Crabb, 1421 S. Alicia drive; Frances Marie Koller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Koller, 116 N. Green Bay road; Lisa Konz, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Stephan A. Konz, 26 Bellaire court; Sandra Claire Pollard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Pollard, 1112 E. Nawada street; Karen Kay Schrage, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Schrage, 1520 S. Outagamie street, and Barbara Van Housen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Corwin Van Housen, 1401 Reid drive.

Christmas Colors

Old fashioned Christmas colors will be used in the decorating scheme and a large, illuminated green and white crown will provide the background for the presentation. Gold coronets will be placed on the presentee's heads by club president, John M. Hayes, after they make their appearance in an entrance-way between two large white swans.

Wearing traditional "debutante" white ball gowns, the eight young women will be escorted by their fathers who will introduce them to Mr. Hayes. He, in turn, will announce them to the club membership.

After the ceremonies the young women will dance first with their fathers, second with their escorts for the evening and third, with club officials. The eight presentees will issue invitations to their young friends to join them for dancing at 10 p. m. after the formal introduction.

Pre-Dance Parties

A cocktail party from 6 to 7 p. m. at the Van Housen home will begin the evening's festivities for the young women and their escorts while their parents and dance co-chairmen will meet for cocktails from 7 to 8 p. m. at the same residence.

The eight presentees will invite one guest couple to the pre-dance party and to dine with them at the club. Their parents and committee members will also plan dinner at BDM after the young people have been served. Special programs commemorating the event will be placed at the tables.

At 9:30 p. m. the traditionally gowned young women will be escorted by their fathers into the main dining room.

Arrangements for the Coronet ball are under the direction of Mrs. Raymond Le Vee and Mrs. Francis H. Jenkins who served as co-chairmen of the first ball last season.

Vacation Highlight

Their introduction at Butte des Morts will highlight the holiday vacation for the young women, all freshman students at various colleges and universities throughout the country.

Miss Konz and Miss Crabb, both graduates of Appleton High school, are classmates at St. Norbert college, West De Pere, while Miss Balliet, also an AHS alumna, studies at St. Mary hospital School of Nursing in conjunction with the University of Wisconsin at Wausau.

A graduate of St. John Catholic High school, Little Chute, Miss Koller now attends the University of Beauty Culture, Indianapolis, Ind., while Miss Pollard, a graduate of Appleton High school, is a freshman at Carleton college, Northfield, Minn.

Miss Schrage enrolled at Oshkosh State college after graduation from Appleton High school and Miss Van Housen, an alumna of Wayland academy, Beaver Dam, studies at Albion college, Albion, Mich.

In Good Taste Person With Cold Should Stay Home

BY EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: Isn't it very lacking in proper behavior for people to go visiting when they have colds? So many people who are not sick enough to be in bed, but who nevertheless have heavy colds, think nothing of going to other people's houses and inflicting their germs on others. Maybe I'm a crank about this because I am susceptible to colds, but I definitely think that people who have colds should stay at home and not expose others to their germs.

Answer: I definitely agree with you, and I am quite certain that most doctors do too. Name Use Dear Mrs. Post: Please settle an argument for me. I contend that husbands and wives should never be referred to as Mr. and Mrs. except when speaking to those in their employ and that a husband or wife should be referred to by first name when speaking to casual acquaintances. My sister says I am wrong and that you always refer to your mate as Mr. or Mrs. except when speaking to friends who know both.

Answer: When speaking to strangers or to persons in your employ, you quite properly say Mr. and Mrs., to social acquaintances you say

"my husband" or "my wife." To friends you say "Mary" or "John" whether they call them that or not.

Dear Mrs. Post: I am in my mid - twenties and am planning to be married for the second time. The wedding will be simple but will take place in church with one attendant. I am a 4-year-old daughter and would like very much to have her take part as a flower girl. Will you please tell me if this will be proper?

Answer: It will be entirely proper—and very sweet.

Our Children
Baby Care Swings Back To Old Fashioned Ways

BY ANGELO PATRI

The pacifier is back with the approval of an expert in child care.

Remember when babies cried without apparent reason? They had been fed, they were dry, nothing was sticking them but they cried and cried. Between yells they made sucking noises and their mothers, naturally, thought they wanted something to suck. They turned away from the bottle and went on crying so they gave them the nipple off the bottle and let them suck away and off to sleep they went.

Then the experts arrived on the scene and were horrified at the sight of a baby sucking a nipple. They told the mothers this was bad practice, that it would bring on colic, it would create an unfortunate habit, that it would distort the baby's mouth. In short, sucking a nipple as a pacifier was out.

Gives Comfort

So it was shunned from that day until this, when an expert, Selma Fraiberg, studied the development of babies and learned that at about the age of three months, babies needed to suck, not just for food but for comfort.

At this age tensions in the mouth demanded more release than sucking for nourishment provided and many babies need that pacifier. Just be sure the baby is not hungry, that the nipple is clean, that he really needs it, (he proves that need by making this sucking noises) and let him have it.

One need not be surprised at this about face change. Many a time things our grandmothers did for babies and little children were condemned by the child experts only to be restored when study and experience proved the grandmothers to be correct.

Use Moderation

Once it was right to let babies "cry it out." Most mothers did not follow that idea, being mothers. There was a time too, when picking up a crying baby, rocking him, walking with him, were forbidden practices. To day they are recommended in the loving, tender care, treatment, where they belong.

There is one catch in all this: Don't do anything too much. Study the baby you have because he has a pattern all his own and move cautiously. And read books like Selma Fraiberg's "Magic Years." You might find a description of your baby on one of the pages.

Elegant Gift Wrappings and decorations add sparkle to the holiday season. The bells are fashioned from brilliant red gift wrap paper with a swirling bow attached for an added touch of lavishness. Another gift is attractively concealed in a sleigh of roses made by cutting sides from gift wrap paper and attaching to the package. Small pieces of red, black and pink paper are used to form eyebrows, lips and cheeks for a cylindrical gift. Ribbon of a contrasting color cut in the form of candles lends a decorative design to another gift.

Your Problems

Mother-in-Law's Short, Tight Dresses Embarrass Woman

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: How can I tell a perfectly wonderful mother-in-law that she wears her dresses too short?

She's put on 50 pounds in the last 10 years but refuses to get out of a size 16. There is simply not enough goods in a size 16 to cover everything.

When my mother - in - law bends over to shake hands with someone seated on the sofa, her hem hits her a good three inches above the back of the knee.

I want to remain friends with my mother-in-law. She's a wonderful person and there is no bigger heart in all the world. Yet I think people get the wrong impression because of the way her dresses fit—Kay.

DEAR KAY: It's your husband's mother. Let him tell her. This assignment is one for flesh and blood.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our daughter is 19. She's attractive, has good taste in clothes and made fair grades in school. College didn't appeal to her, so after the first semester she quit and went to work in an insurance office.

Yesterday she came home from work floating on a cloud. She claims she has fallen in love at first sight. The fellow is a salesman she met at the sandwich bar of the office building. She knows nothing about him, except that he's unmarried and the man she's been dreaming of all her life.

She has a date with him tonight "and every night for the rest of her life"—she hopes.

I've never seen her like this before. Is there such a thing as love at first sight? Please give me some solid information so I'll know what to say to this girl—Morn.

DEAR MORN: One of the most fraudulent pieces of baloney extant is the idea that people fall in love. You can fall off a bicycle, fall off a cliff or into a hole, but you don't fall in love.

Love must take root and grow—one day at a time. It doesn't knock you on the head like a brick from a new Russian building. This sudden impact at first meeting is a chemical reaction better known as an infatuation.

It's possible to be knocked off your pins by a certain someone and over a period of time discover it is love. But this is not love at first sight. This is finding out, through sharing many experiences, that he really is as wonderful as you thought the first time you met. In short, Mom, love must stand the test of time. Tell daughter to put on the brakes.

DEAR ANN: I'm a middle-aged woman who has an elderly lady rooming in my home.

I've always felt I must respect this woman because of her age, but I can't hold my feelings in much longer. She answers my telephone and gets into conversations with my friends who find her gabby and boring. She comes into my living room when guests call, and frequently butts into conversations with her contradictory ideas on everything...

I feel like a prisoner in my own home and I don't know what to do about it. Can you advise me?—Stumped

DEAR STUMPED: Give this woman 30 days in which to find another place to live. Tell her you're going to take it easy and not have roomers for a while.

If you want another roomer make sure the next one is a mind-your-own business type.

Are you going steady? Making marriage plans? If so, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Before You Marry—Is It Love or Sex?", enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Heir of Nobility Seeks Uranium, Gold Deposits

Bobcaygeon, Ont. — (AP) — Marie Czirachy, 38-year-old daughter of a Hungarian count, is still an enthusiastic mining prospector despite being side-tracked from a rich prospect when she first took up the pursuit a decade ago.

The mother of two, who rolls her own cigarettes, continues to search Canadian rocks with her husband, Paul, in quest of uranium, molybdenum, gold and base metals.

The couple, both Hungarian-born, own a private exploration company which has molybdenum holdings at nearby Norland, a gold property in Colchester county, Nova Scotia, and other small showings.

They live on a 500-acre rock-and-bush farm near this village with their sons, Joe, 16, and Peter, 6.

In 1949, when a prospecting rush for uranium swept Canada, they found themselves down to their last $250 on the farm. Would they buy a cow for their pastures or a geiger counter to search their rocks?

Mrs. Czirachy, an economics graduate of the University of Budapest, decided on the geiger.

Within hours of its arrival, she was listening to the tell-tale buzzing from uranium-bearing dikes. She traced them to a high-grade showing and took some samples.

Later the Czirachys drove to Ottawa with their chipmunks. They stopped en route and walked their counter down a bush road.

It nearly buzzed itself out of its box. So the couple chipped some more samples

List Rules For Baby Sitters

If you're planning on having a baby sitter in during the coming Christmas holiday period, the National board of Fire Underwriters offers these suggestions to keep your Christmas merry:

1. Know the sitter; make inquiries about training and family background.
2. Employ only sitters who have a sense of responsibility and who like children.
3. Try to have the same sitter regularly if possible, and one who lives nearby.
4. Have a preliminary interview with sitter. Acquaint her with children and pets, especially the watchdog.
5. Give instructions orally and leave them in writing.
6. Show sitter all exits and how to get children out of house in case of fire.
7. Give the sitter the telephone number of the fire department, family doctor, and place to which they (parents or adult members of the family) are going. Also, what neighbor to call in the event of an emergency.
8. If there is no phone, explain to sitter other means of notifying fire department in case of a fire.
9. Caution sitter against permitting child to play with matches, electric cords, or other electric appliances. Also, tell her to keep the child out of the kitchen, if possible.
10. If sitter is to bathe youngster, make certain she has had such experience.
11. Leave a first aid kit with sitter and explain how to take care of simple burns, cuts, bruises.
12. Be sure sitter understands that in a fire emergency she should get the child out of the house, then call the fire department, then notify the parents.
13. Provide flashlights for use in case lighting should fail.
14. Always come home at the hour agreed upon; telephone if delayed.
15. Make suitable and safe arrangements for accompanying the sitter home.

Sunny Sky May Leave Fox Cities

A change in the sunny skies and relatively warm weather in the Fox Cities is forecast for Friday. Clouds and possibly rain or snow may replace the sun.

With sunny weather, the state highway patrol reported all highways in peak winter driving condition.

Skies were clear across most of the country today and warmer weather appeared on the way for the east and south in wake of the storms and cold.

Although temperatures moderated in the southeast, after a couple of frosty mornings, it was below freezing at Cross City, in northwestern Florida.

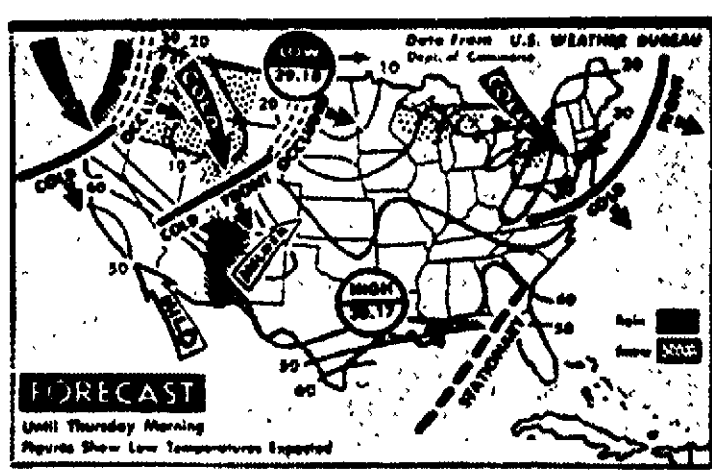

Temperatures in other parts of Florida were mostly in the middle and upper 30s in the north and in the 40s and 50s in the central and southern parts of the state. Some truck crops in the Gainesville and Deland districts were damaged by the heaviest frost of the season.

Hidden Rabbit Will Pop Up By Coloring Dots in Picture

BY CAPPY DICK

If you color every space that has a dot in the adjoining picture, you will reveal a hidden rabbit.

If you then send the picture to me, together with your name, age and address, and it is judged to be one of the five nearest received, you will become the winner of a stamp collector's packet.

This packet consists of 100 world-wide postage stamps and a magnifying glass to use in examining the details of the interesting scenes and portraits on the stamps. If you are a stamp collector, or want to start a collection, this is a worthwhile prize to win. Stamp collecting, incidentally, is a fine hobby for any boy or girl who is studying world history or geography. Many things can be learned about a country by studying its stamps.

It's lots of fun to solve the puzzle in the picture. You may color the dotted spaces with your paints, crayons or pencil. Fill in each dotted section neatly and when you have completed them all, the hidden rabbit will be clearly disclosed.

Cut out the picture and paste it on a sheet of paper or a postal card. Beneath it print your name, age and address. As your last step, address your contest entry to Cappy Dick at the Appleton Post-Crescent and mail it before midnight of day after tomorrow.

Made by Indians?

Birmingham, Ala. — (AP) — City officials were surprised when Dalton Carroll called and said he had found a sidewalk. There wasn't one where he said it was, the city officials objected. Then they started digging, and under a thin layer of dirt and healthy growth of weeds, they found it. Crews went to work to clear it for use again.

A Swiss Cow Bell for outstanding work in breeding and raising purebred Holstein cattle was given to Walter Wieckert, Appleton Kiwanis club agricultural representative and retired farmer, at the Holstein Breeders annual meeting Tuesday. Holstein Breeders Give Major Farm Award

Walter Wieckert, Appleton, Receives Swiss Bell at Group's Annual Meeting

Walter Wieckert, Appleton, county agent, WBAY-TV and the Appleton Post-Crescent were awarded true-type Holstein models for interest in farm work.

Population Eats Surplus

"A rise in the United States population, which helped eat up our dairy surplus, and a cut in production by farmers makes this a good time to ask for a dairy price hike," Charles Brace, state association fieldman, said.

The award was one of two given by the Outagamie County Holstein Breeders at their annual meeting. John E. Pow-

Youth Fails to Outrun Police, Fined $100

Kaukauna — Harold Giebel, 18, 401 Sherry street, Neenah, pleaded guilty of reckless driving and was fined $100 when arraigned before Oscar T. Jahns, justice of the peace, Tuesday.

A charge of operating a vehicle without a driver's license was held open for 60 days by Jahns and if the youth fails to get a license in this period he will be prosecuted.

Kimberly and Kaukauna police joined forces to apprehend the youth about 2:30 a.m. Tuesday when he tried to outrun Kaukauna police. The youth told police he panicked when he noticed the squad car as he had no driver's license.

Blocked Way

He fled from the city on County Trunk Z and made a U-turn in the highway when he noticed Kimberly police blocking the road. Kaukauna police blocked the opposite direction forcing Giebel to turn off onto a side street.

Both police cars followed him to Washington street in Kimberly where he lost control, ran into the ditch, abandoned the car and tried to hide under a house trailer. Police brought the youth to Kaukauna where he was held overnight for justice court. Robert L. Allenberg, 27, 2300 Glenview avenue, Kaukauna, pleaded guilty of speeding and was fined $15.

94 mph Plus Radar Nets Driver Fine

Appleton Man Also Must Attend Safety School or Face 60-Day License Revocation

Vernon A. McDonald, 47, of Logsdon, 53, Beardstown, Ill., 224 E. Pacific street, admitted driving his car at 94 miles an hour into a state police radar check point at 11:40 p. m. Nov. 14. That's 39 miles an hour over the 55-mile limit and netted him a $75 fine, six points against his driving record and a 60-day license revocation in municipal court Tuesday.

Judge Oscar J. Schmiede withheld revocation on the condition McDonald is not arrested for a moving traffic violation and that he attend the municipal court's safety school at 7 p. m. Tuesday in the courtroom.

McDonald explained to the court that his car muffler was leaking exhaust gas and he was driving at a high rate of speed to get the gas behind him.

Other 6-Pointers

Also caught by state police radar and charged six points for driving more than 20 miles an hour over the speed limit were Charles A. Neuschaefer, 51, Gages Lake, Ill., $76.05 fine; Winfield J. Johnson, 43, Berwyn, Ill., $50 fine; and David C. Pfender, 51, Lafayette, Ind., $40 fine.

Fingerprint Check

Ronald L. Bressi, 20, Chicago, was sent to jail for 15 days on a speeding charge to enable sheriff's investigators to make a fingerprint check with the FBI. He was held after he was found with $3 in his pocket and his account of activities aroused police suspicion. He was driving a California-licensed car with an Illinois driver's license and indicated he had been in a number of states this year. If he is not wanted, Judge Schmiede ruled he could be released before expiration of the 15-day sentence.

James A. Densmoor, 28, Markesan, charged with illegal passing, was offered a choice of a $50 fine and 30-day driver's license revocation or a $75 fine. He chose the $75 fine. The conviction will cost him four points.

Pay Raises Approved For County Employees

Increases Range Up to $300 Yearly; Longevity Wage System Also Revised

Salary increases ranging up to $300 per year for court-house workers, including elected and appointed officials, were approved Tuesday by the board of supervisors. The increases become effective Jan. 1.

Raised $300 a year were the county clerk, treasurer, register of deeds, clerk of courts, district attorney, county superintendent of schools, the abstractor, corporation counsel, counsel, highway commissioner and county agent. Given a $200 per year boost were the home agent, farm and home development agent, 4-H club agent, county nurse, assistant county nurse and the county board chairman.

Board Gets Raise

The supervisors voted themselves a per day rate of $14. They currently receive $12. They will receive $10 for half-day meetings.

Also revised was the longevity pay system to include a raise of $10 monthly at 7 1/2 years, $5 more at 10 years and $5 more at 15 years, the last two being increases from the $10 on existing schedules. This means county employees with 15 or more years of service will receive $20 more per month.

The longevity provision also will include all the employees who are not under civil service but who are on the step increase plan.

Traffic Police

Also approved was a $10 a month increase for county traffic police in addition to the regular longevity hike, plus an allowance of $75 a year for uniforms. The mileage rate paid county officers, supervisors and other employees was upped 1 cent a mile.

The salary range of the superintendent of public buildings was set at $335 to $385 and the salary range of the county service officer was changed to $385 to $415.

The salary of the secretary of the safety council was set at $12 per meeting.

It was agreed employees with 15 years or more service will receive three weeks of paid vacation a year. Each employed, too, will be entitled to sick leave at the rate of five days per year, with a year-to-year accumulation of not more than 30 days.

Effort Defeated

An effort by Supv. Mark Catlin to obtain a $300-a-year pay increase for the clerk of the municipal court was defeated, but the resolution brought about a round of name-calling between Catlin and Supv. Sylvester Esler, chairman of the civil service committee.

After Catlin had introduced his resolution, Esler took the floor to say that his committee did not single out individuals for raises.

"We have everyone satisfied... we want to keep them all happy. I can hear you snickering, Catlin. You can smoke your cigar out of the other side of your face."

"I've been insulted by experts, gentlemen," Catlin said. "He (Esler) is a rank amateur. He says he didn't pick out individuals. I see 15 individuals listed on this resolution if I'm not mistaken. I merely want to see if we can't equalize, partially at least, the salary difference of our court reporters who are doing essentially the same work."

County Hospital

Supv. Paul Kostka wanted to know why the head of the department didn't ask for the increase. "We don't need the bar association to tell us what

St. Mary Foresters Set Christmas Party

Kaukauna — A Christmas party for adult and juvenile members of St. Mary's Catholic Order of Foresters Court 118 will be held at 7 p.m. Thursday in the school. Special entertainment is planned followed by games and the distribution of gifts to juvenile members. Lunch will be served.

"We should pay our people," he said.

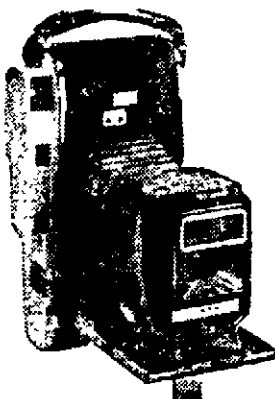

A similar resolution by Supv. Gerhard Ruhsam, seeking $10 per month increases for two investigators in the sheriff's department, also was defeated.

Earlier in the day salary increases of from $10 to $20 per month were granted employees of the county hospital. The boosts amount to a total of about $400 a month but all of the cost will not be carried by the county. A portion will be covered by state reimbursements.

Increased $1,200 per year to $9,200 was the salary of the superintendent and medical director of Riverview sanatorium. The supervisors also established a $3,000 yearly salary for the new post of family court commissioner. The post replaces the old divorce counsel.

Withholding Would Hide Tax Burden, Opponents Say

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Madison—The Democratic state administration is being challenged on virtually every point it has argued in favor of a withholding method of collecting state income taxes.

Opponents also have introduced at the two hearings some arguments against pre-payment of taxes which administration spokesmen have not acknowledged.

In briefest outline, here are the main objections to the plan for wage and salary deductions for state taxes and quarterly pre-payment for corporations and self-employed individuals:

Because the state expects to spend the windfall of revenues to be produced by withholding, it will be forever impossible to return to the annual payment of taxation if the withholding method turns out to be ineffectual or undesirable.

Indifference?
A painless system of collecting taxes from the people will turn them into indifference toward tax problems and the burdens of public expenditure.

Hidden Raises
Providing for the relatively painless deduction of taxes from weekly or monthly pay checks will make it irresistibly easy to continue raising the rates, in the face of warnings by tax economists and others that the Wisconsin income tax load is already dangerously high against those states with which Wisconsin is in economic competition.

An abrupt change in collection methods from annual assessment to pre-payment actually would be a basic change in state tax policy and would repudiate the citizens tax study commission, now at work under a mandate of the governor and the legislature to evolve a fundamental revision of fiscal machinery.

Withholding will be deceptive, and will work out as a higher tax burden for most individuals and corporations because they will pay a great sum in state taxes during the first 12 months period than they would with a continuation of the present system.

No Better System
There is no real assurance of substantially increased efficiency of collections, to put against additional burdens upon individuals and corporations.

Requiring employers to handle tax payment obligations of their employees would impose unfairly upon them, and also would foster the paternalistic idea that the individual is not capable of meeting his legal obligations to the state.

The advantage of withholding will be purely temporary and therefore largely illusory, since the state will spend the windfall gains during the next year and will again face the need for tax revision in the subsequent biennium.

Could Stop Change
Perhaps the greatest pressure against the withholding plan comes from those who fear the average citizen will become oblivious to the weight of his state tax bill when it is subtracted from his pay in installments before he gets his earnings, that therefore the legislature will be inclined to load further burdens upon the income tax structure and that the pressure for tax revision through incorporating a new tax will be defeated.

Such a result would harm the state's industrial development prospects, it is argued, since there is evidence Wisconsin upper bracket taxation already is out of line with that of other states.

Less explicit has been the worry of some employers that the effect of withholding will appear to be a wage deduction for their employees, who will promptly demand wage raises to compensate for such deductions. In a highly organized industry, for example, that consideration would appear to be a practical objection to the employer concerned about payroll costs.

One employer has testified that a requirement for pre-payment of state taxes would reduce working capital by $500,000 a year. The interest equivalent of that working capital loss would be a deductible item for federal tax purposes, but in a period of tight money and high interest, many employers regard such a requirement as an unfair burden upon them.

Philosophic Wrong
There also are philosophic objections to the idea that the state should subtract a part of its citizens' earnings before they are actually paid out to him.

The proposal implies a distrust of that person's willingness or ability to pay his taxes according to his present statutory obligation. The pre-payment principle also might be applied with equal justice to the property tax, it is argued.

Such critics also complain the proposal of Gov. Nelson to repeal the individual income surtax as a form of partial forgiveness in the withholding plan is designed as political bait. The surtax or its equivalent will be levied again in the following budget period after the windfall gains of withholding have been spent, they point out.

Committee to Seek Action On School Law

County Groups to Be Asked to Start
Work on Measure

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison — A Legislative council committee on education has agreed to apply gentle pressure upon county school committees to proceed without delay and put into effect the new state law requiring all territory to be in a high school district before July of 1962. The action was taken by a group of legislators and private citizens assigned to consider interim educational problems of the legislature. Assemblyman Keith Hardie, Jackson county, Democratic majority leader in the lower house of the legislature, was chosen chairman. The committee's counsel to the county committees will be dispatched through the state department of public instruction. It will ask the county school boards to revise its "master plans" for local school district reorganization. Form Free District Members showed some concern about the possibility of unwise school construction in some districts as a means of frustrating the purposes of the high school annexation statute. It is possible, for example, for unorganized districts to form union free high school districts under existing statutes and to build high schools to serve them. Some of the territory of the state which is now unorganized for high school purposes has operating elementary school districts within it. If such territory is attached to an integrated school district for high school purposes, the elementary school districts are attached simultaneously, it was explained. Under the circumstances some elementary districts may be tempted to build new plants, in the expectation that the debt incurred will ultimately be retired by the operating district to which it will ultimately be attached. Members said there are hasty plans for such ill-advised building in many localities of the state as a result of the high school district law.

Amvets Reveal Plans To Install Bells at Pearl Harbor Shrine

Washington — The Amvets announced plans Monday to install a set of bells at Pearl Harbor in memory of the navy men who died 18 years ago in the Japanese attack on the battleship Arizona. The carillon will be installed next Memorial day at the Arizona shrine at Pearl Harbor. The gift was announced during a Pearl Harbor day ceremony at Arlington National cemetery honoring the heroes of World war II. Harold T. Berg, Chicago, the Amvets national commander, presented a symbolic silver bell during the service to Secretary of the Navy William B. Franke. Its inscription read: "This carillon is humbly dedicated by Amvets on behalf of our nation to the men of the USS Arizona; 'While these bells ring; Safely rest. Freedom lives.'" The Pearl Harbor carillon will be the fourth that the Amvets have donated as memorials to the war head. The others are at Arlington National cemetery, Golden Gate cemetery near San Francisco and Jefferson Barracks cemetery in Missouri.

Lawrence Says Nomura Knew War Wouldn't Settle Anything

Views Were One Reason He Wasn't Told of Attack

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—The Japanese ambassador to the United States in 1941, Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura, is quoted as having just said the attack on Pearl Harbor was a "great blunder" for Japan, "forced on our responsible people by young, audacious elements." This is not hindsight on his part. No man worked harder than he did to prevent hostilities between Japan and the United States.

"You will win, but war settles nothing," he said privately to this correspondent in discussing the possibility of war. This was just a few days before the break came. He was convinced that the far east would not be peaceful for decades to come if America and Japan went to war.

Ambassador Nomura's views on a conflict with the United States were known to the foreign office in Tokyo. This is one of the reasons why he was never apprised in advance that there would be an attack on Pearl Harbor.

American Blunders
It is necessary to point out there were blunders in American policy, too. A large share of the blame for the war must be taken by those in Washington who did not fully grasp the fundamental reasons leading to the rise in power of the militaristic bloc in Japan. Cabinet crises should have been a warning that liberal groups in Japan were losing out. The passions of nationalism were being inflamed by attacks on American policy toward China—a policy which was regarded then as hostile to Japan's commercial expansion on the Asian mainland. The United States was right in opposing Japanese aggression in Manchuria and other areas in China. Commercial development, on the other hand, should have been possible without the necessity of interfering with the aspirations of each nation to be free and independent. American policy might well have been pursued in that direction.

Possibly the biggest opportunity for a peaceful solution of the far eastern dilemma came in 1934 when the Japanese government announced the treaty limiting naval armament could no longer be adhered to by the Tokyo government.

Lack of Naval Power
One of the reasons given was the build-up of American military and naval bases in the Philippines. Unfortunately, the minds of the American people, and particularly the officials of the administration of Franklin D. Roosevelt, were occupied primarily with domestic affairs in those years. Instead of pointing out that the United States would have to build up its naval strength if the existing treaty were ended, and this would precipitate a period of tension, nothing was done to promote a different solution.

There were enough peaceful elements in Japan at that time which could have rallied to the idea of a new treaty of friendship with the United States and the creation of new commercial projects in the far east. The United States and Japan could have shared in these ventures. Business and militarism were close allies in those days inside Japan, and it was natural for the exponents of nationalism there to team up with the ruling groups in Germany, where fascism under Hitler was beginning to grow powerful in the early 1930's. Japan could have been kept from joining the alliance with Germany. It is unfortunate London wasn't more active in this respect, for there had long been an intimate relationship in diplomacy between the British and the Japanese.

Not Pursued
A 4-power treaty—between Japan, Britain, France and the United States—was substituted, but its objectives were not energetically pursued. In the end, Japan was alienated from both Britain and America.

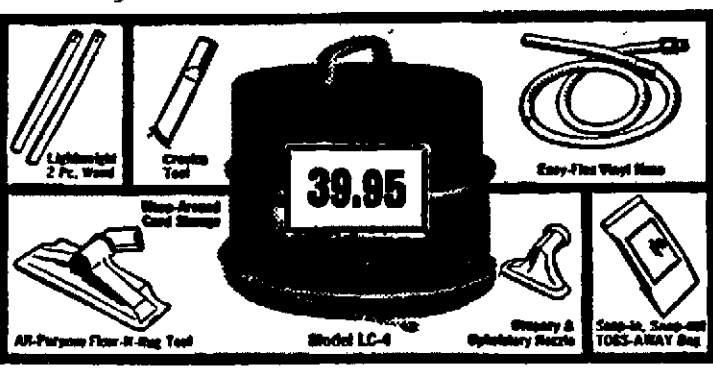

Today, with China in the hands of the communists and Japan reduced materially in military and economic strength, the United States and Britain have no really powerful ally in the far east and must depend on the slow rebuilding of Japan or the possible overthrow of the communists by the Chinese people. The 1941 remark of Admiral Nomura can well be rephrased to say that "war settles nothing that peaceful negotiation at the opportune moment could not have settled much better."

Leave the dishes for Santa Claus?
You bet! He knows the modern way to do the dishes, and so do a lot of other people, judging from the way that sleigh is loaded with KitchenAid dishwashers. Say Merry Christmas and good-bye to dishwashing and wiping chores with the completely automatic KitchenAid by Hobart. And you have never seen dishes so hospital-clean. KitchenAid has the exclusive Hobart power-washing system...the revolving wash arm that power-washes right through the toughest dried-on foods. Yet, even the most delicate stemware is perfectly safe. And the KitchenAid has a separate drying system that sanitarily dries everything with never a cloud. KitchenAid is easy to load and has adjustable upper rack for greatest capacity. Eight models to choose from. The undercounter model offers a choice of finished fronts to blend with any color scheme.

Proposed Movie on Life of Vincent Peale
 New York —(AP) Dr. Norman Vincent Peale says Hollywood plans to make a movie on his life.

Outdoor Life Has Pitfalls
 Farmer's Lot Often One of Pain, Doctor Says
 Chicago—(AP)—Is the farmer—thanks to his outdoor life—healthier than his city cousin? A Wisconsin doctor said today the great outdoors often contains pitfalls that keep some farmers in misery and pain.
 Dr. Stephan Epstein of the Marshfield Clinic said farmers are subject to disease borne by the animals they attend and some are allergic to plants and weeds.
 He listed these farm hazards in a talk at the 18th annual meeting of the American Academy of Dermatology and Syphilology:
 Ringworm contracted from cattle, hard nodules on the upper lip and cheeks caused by a fungus, milkers' eczema, glanders a serious systemic infection transmitted to man by horses, a toxic dermatitis produced by caterpillars, insect bites and stings, sensitivity to cattle dander or chicken feathers, ragweed oil dermatitis and skin tumors.

Neenah — Just a week deep into their 1959-60 schedule, Mid-Eastern conference teams get a double dose of league opposition Friday and Saturday. And both nights, clubs that won their opening games are pitted against each other.

Highlighting the Friday bill is the Kimberly-at-Kaukauna fracas. Two Rivers is at Menasha in another feature. Completing the program are Neenah at Shawano and New London at Clintonville.

Kimberly plays host to Menasha Saturday evening and Kaukauna will travel to Two Rivers. Neenah entertains Clintonville and Shawano plays at New London in the other two encounters.

Going into the weekend contests, two league teams are unbeaten in their overall records. Two Rivers and Kaukauna both own 4-0 slates.

The infant season already has had a multitude of exciting games with fast finishes and the Kimberly-Kaukauna contest could be another one. The Ghosts came within a whisker of dealing the Paper-makers a league loss last year but succumbed in the final moments. Both clubs have only lost one graduated regular from their squads.

The game features last year's three top conference scorers. Kaukauna's Leroy Weyenberg won the title followed by Don Hearden and Milwaukee —(P) — Marquette's basketball team got off to an 8-0 lead, staggered while Valparaiso nearly caught up and then finally ignited to win Tuesday night, 75-58.

Don Kojis, veteran Marquette center, wound up with 20 points to take scoring honors for both teams. He has scored 20 or more points in the three games played by the Warriors this year.

Packers Film Punters, Plan for Next Year

McGee, Dowler and Francis Kick for
'Director' Lombardi

BY ART DALEY

Post-Crescent News Service

Palo Alto, Calif. — Ready, action, camera. Director Vince Lombardi clapped his hands together in front of the "actor" and quickly stepped aside while Norbert Hecker pressed the start button on the movie camera during Tuesday's drill at Stanford university.

The silent film production, entitled "Packer Punting," was in progress.

Lombardi was having fun, playing director for the first scene, but there was some method to this cinema caper.

First, Max McGee had a punt—short of a line driver—returned 71 yards for a touchdown by Jon Arnett vs. the Rams last Sunday. Second, "we're looking to next year and films of all our punters will give us a better picture of their punting," Vince said.

And, Lombardi wants to make sure about the booting for next Sunday's windup against the 49ers in San Francisco.

All Filmed

McGee, Boyd Dowler and Joe Francis were filmed while punting. All three are expected to be back next year and Vince, looking forward to 1960 on many fronts, wants to have less worry when it comes time to punt.

McGee is averaging around 42 yards and has done all of the Packers' punting this year. Dowler and Francis haven't punted in a league game yet. Dowler is the longest-distance

Kimberly and Appleton Fives Slated to Clash

Hortonville High school has been named a sub-regional basketball tournament host for the first time in history by the Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic association.

Kaukauna, Kimberly and Appleton will join the Polar Bears in the 1960 sub-regional (beginning either Feb. 29 or March 3) in the new Hortonville gym.

Hortonville will meet Kaukauna, and Kimberly will play Appleton in opening games, according to the alphabetical draw announced today by the WIAA.

In the companion sub-regional at Menasha (perennial tournament site), the host Bluejays will play Oshkosh, while Neenah's first foe is Omro. The same eight teams make up the regional field as in 1959.

The regional finals will be played in Menasha March 5.

40 Sub-Regionals

Despite all of last March's conjecture on possible turnover changes, the 1960 tournament set-up will be basically unchanged. In all, 193 schools will play in 40 sub-regionals and 247 schools are assigned to 48 sub-districts. The sub-district tournaments will open Feb. 22, the sub-regionals Feb. 29, the district finals March 4, the sectionals March 11 and the state meet March 17.

Neenah has once again been picked as one of the eight sectional sites. Competing will be the champions of the Menasha, Green Bay East and Two Rivers regionals and the Reedsville district.

Waupaca and Clintonville will both be sub-regional hosts in '60, with 'Paca set for the regional finals. In the 'Paca sub-regional will be Stevens Point, Wisconsin Rapids and Bonduel High school took over the undisputed basketball lead in the Central Wisconsin conference Tuesday night by downing previously-undefeated Manawa, 71-54.

In other games, Iola nipped Weyauwega, 68-66; Waupaca beat Marion, 63-58; and Amherst downed Wittenberg, 75-51.

Home-standing Bonduel led all the way in the first-place battle. Manawa pulled within three points in the third quarter, but the Bears—paced by Bill Dussling and Steve Nault—pulled out of danger with a 24-14 point edge in the final period.

Dussling Hits 25
Manawa's press failed to stop Dussling from totaling 25 points and Nault from getting 16. Jim Martin was high for the Wolves with 18.

Iola overcame a 17-9 first quarter deficit to hand Weyauwega its second loss. In the decisive third quarter, Iola outscored the Indians, 24-13. Wega outdid the visitors 21-16, in the final stanza but couldn't quite pull it out.

Ron Rosenthal, who hit nine points in the third-quarter spurt, finished as the game's top scorer with 26 points. Jim Billington coined 20 for the losers.

Iola won it from the free throw line, making 24 out of 26, while Wega (which had a 28 to 22 basket edge) had to settle for 10 of 19 from the foul line.

Steve Hansen, who scored 44 the last time out for a school and conference record, poured in 31 to lead Waupaca to its victory. He scored 11 baskets and nine of 12 free throw attempts. He got 14-point assistance from Dick

Hornung Tied for 2nd In NFL Scoring Race

Carpenter Punt Return Leader; Unitas Breaks Luckman's Touchdown Pass Record

Philadelphia — (U) — Lew Hornung of the Green Bay Packers leads the National Football league in punt returns with an 11.6 average.

He has carried the ball 139 yards in 12 returns, with his longest run 51 yards. Bill Butler of the Packers is fifth in that department with an average of 9.2 in 15 runs at net him 143 yards. His longest run was 61 yards.

Paul Hornung of Green Bay is tied for second place among the league's scorers with 72 points. Pat Summerall of the New York Giants leads the circuit with 84 points.

Max McGee of Green Bay is seventh among the punters with a 42.4 average. The leading punter is Don Chandler of the Giants.

McHann Sixth
Lamar McHann of the Packers is sixth among the league's passers with a 7.45 average gain average and Bart Starr of Green Bay is eleventh with a 6.63 average.

The leader is veteran Charlie Conerly of the Giants with 8.77.

Conerly has displaced Baltimore's Johnny Unitas as the National Football league's top passer, but Unitas has set a league record.

Conerly completed 14 of 21 passes of 271 yards against Cleveland Sunday as he led the Giants to their second straight Eastern conference title.

With one game to go, the former Mississippi star has gained 1,499 yards on 98 completed passes in 171 attempts, an 8.77 average, league statistics showed today. He thus jumped from third to first in the passing division, relinquishing his old slot to Unitas, who has an 8.20 average on 180 completions in 340 attempts. He has gained 2,789 yards, the best in the league.

Score 3 Times
The Colts, however, scored three times Saturday on passes from their star quarterback, thus boosting Unitas' total to a record 28 touchdowns.

The old NFL record of 28 for one season was held by Sid Luckman.

Jimmy Brown, of Cleveland, still holds a comfortable edge in the ground gaining department. The former Syracuse All-America has picked up 1,177 yards on 257 carries for a 4.6 average.

Baltimore's ace pass receiver, Ray Berry, is far ahead in his specialty. Berry has caught 63 passes for 936 yards and 12 touchdowns.

Teammate Lenny Moore is second with 44 completions for 815 yards. Tommy McDonald, of Philadelphia, jumped from sixth to third in the standings. The fleet Eagle has caught 43 for 786 yards and 10 touchdowns.

'Sonny' Liston 5-1 Favorite Over Willie Besmanoff

Cleveland — (U) — Hard-hitting Sonny Liston, who wants a crack at the heavyweight title, is favored to score his nineteenth straight victory to night in a 10-round television bout with Willie Besmanoff.

The 27-year-old Liston, of Philadelphia, ranks third among the heavyweight contenders. A 5-1 favorite to whip the German-born Besmanoff, Liston has lost only once in 26 fights. He has knocked out 16 opponents.

Besmanoff, who fights out of Milwaukee, has been knocked out only once, in the first of 64 fights. He has won 41, lost 16 and had seven draws, with 15 of his victories ending in knockouts.

Lee MacPhail Is Promoted

Succeeds Keelty As President Of the Orioles

Baltimore — (U) — Lee MacPhail, general manager of the Baltimore Orioles, will become president of the club when he is elected by the board of directors Friday.

MacPhail, 42, will succeed James Keelty, Jr., who announced his resignation Tuesday as president of the American league baseball club.

MacPhail was tapped for the president's job in Keelty's announcement, and his selection was confirmed shortly afterward by Joseph A. W. Iglehart, chairman of the board.

"We wanted a baseball man who can devote full time to the job, and Lee is the logical choice," Iglehart said.

Oshkosh '5' Blasts Lakeland, 89 to 43

Oshkosh — (U) — Oshkosh State college had little trouble gaining a 89-43 non-conference basketball victory over Lakeland Tuesday night.

Leading scorers were Mike Grabner and Gordie Seibach of Oshkosh with 18 points each.

Big 10 Opens Annual Meeting With Discussion on TV Offer

Chicago — (U) — The Big Ten, long an opponent of the NCAA's television policy, opens its annual meetings tonight with discussions of a $3,000,000 television offer.

The Big Ten Television committee will ponder the offer made by a Chicago advertising agency and is expected to make its suggestions before the meetings end Saturday.

The deal is for one million dollars annually to televise Big Ten football, basketball and other conference events with an option for renewal after three years.

Is Ammunition
Despite the amount of money involved, the offer is not exceptionally large. The Big Ten already receives some $800,000 annually from football television under the NCAA program.

However, the offer appears to be ammunition in the Big Ten's drive for schools to arrange their own TV schedules and commitments. The Western conference has been a foe of the NCAA policy which provides a national-regional football program with controls.

Under NCAA rules, the Big Ten cannot accept the television offer.

Neither is the Big Ten expected to accept the offer. But the mere fact that the deal is being considered could force the NCAA to relax its television policy at its convention in January.

However, should the Big Ten accept the offer, the move would be tantamount to bolting from the NCAA. This would make Big Ten schools ineligible to compete in NCAA championships.

Other matters to be taken up during the meetings include the Rose bowl situation and the conference's financial aid policy based on need.

day and nearly half of the points came down the stretch.

The Foxes trailed, 44-36, going into the final quarter but a fine closing drive sent the game into overtime.

Bartmann hit a pair of late jumps, the last with four seconds left, to tie the count at 52-all at the end of regulation time.

Bobby Gerndt of Suring and Bartmann matched jumps in the overtime and then Peter Larsen poured home a pair of free throws for the hosts.

Bartmann matched it with another fielder. Gerndt fouled Darrell Mindell and he missed the first of a 1-and-1—his eighth miss in nine foul shot attempts.

Gerndt's sub Dickson then became the game's hero.

The Foxes lost the game from the foul line with just four free throws in 18 attempts. Bob Luebke scored 13 points before fouling out and Mindell contributed 11. Gerndt led the winners with 16.

3-I League's Hal Totten Had Reason to Strut at Parley basketball innovations (such as giving the defensive team both inside positions on free throw attempts), is trying another experiment this season. No free throws are being awarded on offensive fouls. When the offensive team fouls, the ball goes out of bounds to the opposition.

The foul will be charged to the individual but not toward the team total (which determines when the bonus rules takes effect). This won't reduce free-throwing by too much, but every little bit helps when it comes to cutting down that monotonous parade to the line.

Hal Totten had good reason to strut a bit at the annual minor league meeting. The league he heads—the Three-I—was the only one in the entire minor league structure that came to Florida with a full complement of teams and working agreements for 1960.

Continental League Founders May Seek Congressional Aid

Source Says Bid for Major Loop Status Might Wind Up in Courts

BY JOE REICHLER
Miami Beach, Fla. — (U) — Branch Rickey's 4-month tug-o-war with baseball's higher echelon for recognition and admission of his embattled Continental league into the major league circle may wind up in the courts, it was learned today.

William Shea, founder of the circuit, currently limited to six teams, has just about convinced Rickey the time has come to seek congressional aid in their bid to become a third major league.

This was reliably reported to The Associated Press by a source closely connected with the embryo circuit.

Only a clear-cut stand on expansion by the American league—either yes or no—will deter the 78-year-old president of the Continental league from prunter but still is inconsistent. Francis can kick the ball a mile high. McGee has the s a v v y, consistency and a knack of getting the roll.

"We may start Dowler punting in the exhibition season next year and see how he does," Lombardi said.

The movie program that preceded the regular drill was unique. Each kicker took about 10 kicks and numbered each by putting up a corresponding number of fingers while being filmed. Punt receivers caught the boots and yelled down the yardage distance to Coach "Red" Cichoran who jotted down the figure on a chart showing the punt numbers. Thus, the length of each can be determined when the films are studied after the season.

Field Goal Films.
Later, the same kind of pictures will be taken of the field goal kicking of Paul Hornung and Jerry Kramer. Another candidate for kicking may be Ron Kramer who has shown a good foot.

The longest punt Tuesday was a 59-yarder by Dowler. Francis got off a 45-yarder boot once and Lombardi yelled: "That thing went 45 yards up in the air, too."

McGee has an amazing ability to get a good roll on his punts. Lou Michaels almost blocked one of his punts Sunday but McGee maneuvered his kick under Michaels' arm. It went about 15 yards in the air and then bounced another 30 yards—to the Ram 8.

Once Tuesday, McGee got off a shortie of about 25 yards. Billy Butler started up to field it but Lew Carpenter yelled, "let it bounce, it'll roll up to us." It hit and rolled an extra 15 yards to Butler. Amazing.

Question to Lombardi:
"How come we're completing so many passes about 20 yards straight up the middle?" Answer "That's a state secret." Comment: It must be a real secret because the Bays have been completing that type of pass since the start of the season and nobody has defended it effectively yet.

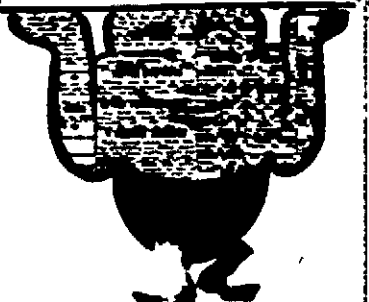

Gary Knafelc "missed" parts of the Ram game Sunday. He got belted in the chin a couple of times and never knew what was going on, although he was walking and running around. "I didn't know about Don McIlhenny's touchdown until after the game," he said.

Bill Quinlan missed practice Tuesday. He was down in bed with the flu. Dan Currie, Jim Taylor and Forrest Gregg are among those with injuries. "And don't forget I got a blister under my toe," Whittenston told Trainer "Bad" Jorgensen.

"Em" Tunnell was walking around in his hands during the Tuesday practice—a special exercise he likes to take on his own from time to time. "Ollie Matson and some of the others were telling me that we were the best conditioned team they played this season," Tunnell said.

making this grave decision. The American league announced Monday that at the present time it had no plans to expand but that it had reached no definite decision on future expansion because of a number of problems which could not presently be resolved.

Expansion Inevitable
AL President Joe Cronin added that expansion was inevitable and instructed his fact-finding committee to continue its study.

"The American League decision is not satisfactory to us," the source said. "Cronin had promised us a yes-or-no answer. He hasn't lived up to that promise. Unless the American league tells us it will expand and makes its selection of cities, or declares emphatically and unequivocally that it has absolutely no intention of expanding, I'm afraid the only recourse is for us to go to the courts."

Cronin refused to comment on Rickey's assertion that he had offered to release any two cities the American league desired if it was sincere about expansion.

"There is no indication at this time," said Joe, "that the American league intends to expand in 1961, 1962, 1963, 1964 or 1965. I made it clear the AL will not delay the Continental league from going forward with the completion of its organization."

"It looks as though they have problems and are trying to blame them on us," 6 Members

Cronin referred to the fact that the Continental league currently is comprised of only six members. Atlanta joined the founding five Tuesday. The original franchise holders were Toronto, Houston, Denver, Minneapolis-St. Paul and New York.

Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick also denied he was deterring the new league.

"When they get eight teams, I'll be behind them 100 per cent," he said. "I cannot subscribe to the theory that there is a road block. It's just impossible for anyone to say 'we are never going to expand.' I interpret the AL statement that it is not going to expand. To me it was perfectly clear that the AL gave the Continental league the go-ahead sign."

"It seems to me that instead of trying to hang the hat on somebody else, the time has come for the Continental league to act and not alibi."

Darrell Jansen of Kimberly. Hearden scored 28 points last week, Jansen 24 and Weyenberg 17.

Menasha, upset winner over Neenah, now has an overall 2-2 mark and will attempt to go above the .500 point at the expense of the Raiders who have made Plymouth, Manitowoc, Sheboygan North and Shawano their victims.

Both clubs have shown balanced scoring attacks. Menasha is paced by Dave Risttau while Tom Lawrence has been topping the Two Rivers sharpshooters.

Neenah, now 3-1, attempts to get back on the winning trail at the expense of Shawano, which has had good and bad days. A miserable second half brought about the Rockets' defeat to Menasha last week after they led by seven at halftime.

Shawano bowed to Two Rivers Friday night but took care of Marinette in a non-league fracas the following night. Ron Hoppe, who hit 31 points in the Marinette game, has been getting scoring help from Steve Hickel. Jack Ankerson and Dick Wilson have been the most consistent Neenah scorers and sophomore Dave Burton continues to improve.

New London, which gave heavily-favored Kaukauna a struggle before bowing by nine points, takes a 1-1 season's record into the Clintonville game. The Truckers, now 1-2 for the year, played Kimberly on even terms in the first and fourth periods in Friday's 81-59 loss but was outscored 47-26 in the middle two.

The final verifications and listing of tourney assignments will be at a Feb. 12 board of control meeting in Milwaukee. Few, if any, changes in the original schedules come out of these meetings.

Billy Cannon Is Anxious to Try His Hand at the Pro Game

BY WILL GRIMSLEY

New York — (U) — Billy Cannon, the hottest piece of football property to come off the college grid this fall, says he isn't shaky about the big step into the professional game.

"I watch the pros every week on television — sometimes get two games a week," the speedy Louisiana State halfback said today. "They're a good deal bigger and a step faster, but they play the same game."

"I know it will be tough at first. But we'll have big guys on our side, too. I'm anxious to try my hand at it."

To Renew Feud

Drafted by the Los Angeles Rams, Cannon said he expected to sign sometime after the Hula bowl game in Honolulu Jan. 10. He also renews a feud with Mississippi in the Sugar bowl at New Orleans Jan. 1.

New honors came to the 2-time All-America when he was named "Back of the Year" today in The Associated Press' post season poll. He won by a runaway margin in a vote of the nation's sports writers and broadcasters.

Cannon previously had been voted the Heisman trophy, which he will receive here tonight at the Downtown Athletic club.

The 23-year-old thunderbolt from Baton Rouge, said his plans are to remain in professional football about five years — "at least until I get my dental degree and can start taking teeth out legally."

There have been rumors that the New York Yankees are interested in making a deal for Spahn, the National league's top left-hander.

Abnormal Weather Hits Farmers Hard

Sub-Freezing Temperature,
Rain, Humidity Cause Losses
For Fox Cities Area Producers

BY ROY F. VALITCHKA II
Post-Crescent Farm Editor

Sub-freezing temperatures, literally slapped Fox Cities record rainfall, heat and humidity — these weather conditions in abnormal doses have you have to make the best of it," Henry Heimann, president of the Wisconsin Sugarbeet Co-op said. Here is a running account of the losses.

State Losses
Less than two thirds of the state's record bumper corn crop of 181.5 million bushels has been harvested. Langlade county, in the Antigo potato country, lost 3,000 acres of potatoes. About 2,000 acres of sugar beets remain in the ground. Calumet county has 30 per cent in, Outagamie county 20 per cent and Kewaunee 30 per cent. Early cabbage in Outagamie county was more than half lost. One of the state's two horseradish producers at Black Creek has been unable to touch his 242 acres.

This has been one of the wettest harvest seasons in the area in 15 years, one farmer said. Wet and soggy soil made it almost impossible for many to complete fall plowing. Rains also slowed repairs on buildings as well as other preparations for winter on the farm.

"Farmers picking corn late in the season isn't uncommon," John E. Powers, Outagamie county agent, said. But picking it this late is," he added.

Silage Corn Poor
Silage corn is a near loss. Most stalks froze or dried. Addition of water to dry silage corn won't help, Powers says. He has two recommendations for farmers.

If corn is not too soft, chop and pile it for a month. Feed off the pile first, Powers says. Too wet corn will rot, he added.

If a split in fairly air tight and strong take just the cobs of corn and chop it into meal and run it into the silo, Powers said. Use this meal at the rate of three to four inches a day. Corn and cob meal has 5 per cent protein and 73 per cent total digestive nutrient compared to 1 per cent protein and 18 per cent TDN for silage.

Potato Yield Drops
Yield of the fall crop of potatoes was expected at 6.5 million hundredweight. Nov. 1 the crop dropped five hundredweight per acre to 135 hundredweight. This brings the yield to 137 hundredweight per acre, or three hundredweight below the October, '59 estimate and seven below the '58 average.

The loss of potatoes in the Antigo area was chiefly in the lowlands, Dob Diercks, Antigo potato grower, said. Prices f.o.b. Antigo for potatoes at present are $2.85 to $3 a hundred for Russets, $2 to $2.25 for whites and $2.20 to $2.40 for good reds. This is $1 to $1.25 a hundredweight higher than earlier in the season, a Dundas dealer said. Langlade county was the only potato area hard hit, Diercks said. It provides 50 per cent of the state's potatoes.

Generally potato raisers have been getting 300 to 350 bushels an acre, Waupaca County Agent Joe Walker said. Most Waupaca county farmers got their potatoes out, he added.

Freeze Comes Early
"Oct. 15 I looked at a mess of white potatoes. They were grass green," W. G. Bishoff,

The association includes 410 persons. There are 372 herdsmen sampling their own products and 38 herds being sampled by DHIA fieldmen. The laboratory tests about 10,000 milk samples per month in addition to milk from 11 cheese factories.

of Bishoff Farms, Inc., Black planting and spring work, Bishoff said.

Hot weather and high humidity during the summer months caused early cabbage in the county to rot. About 40 per cent of the early crop was lost. Outagamie county has 1,900 acres of cabbage.

Wallace Schoepke, fieldman for the Shiocton Kraut company, said cold weather didn't hurt the cabbage. The heat, however, caused brown leaves inside the cabbage head to form.

Another cabbage farmer estimated late varieties of cabbage got as high as $50 or $60 a ton.

Sugar beet producers are still trying to pick the beets. Tractors and pickers are bogging down in muck or breaking through the frost layer, Heimann said.

Lack of sun in October and too much water throughout the growing season cut the beet's sugar content, Heimann said.

Earlier in the season farmers feared all the crop might be lost. New machines helped get many beets out near schedule. Outagamie county has 1,700 acres of beets and Calumet county had some 810 acres still in the ground in mid-October.

Hot weather and high humidity during the summer months caused early cabbage in the county to rot. About 40 per cent of the early crop was lost. Outagamie county has 1,900 acres of cabbage.

Wallace Schoepke, fieldman for the Shiocton Kraut company, said cold weather didn't hurt the cabbage. The heat, however, caused brown leaves inside the cabbage head to form.

Another cabbage farmer estimated late varieties of cabbage got as high as $50 or $60 a ton.

Sugar beet producers are still trying to pick the beets. Tractors and pickers are bogging down in muck or breaking through the frost layer, Heimann said.

Lack of sun in October and too much water throughout the growing season cut the beet's sugar content, Heimann said.

Legislative Agents
To Work for Series Of Proposed Ideas
Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison — The Wisconsin Farm Bureau federation, the state's largest organization of farmers, has directed its legislative agents to work for enactment of a series of changes in Wisconsin traffic regulations including a less restrictive maximum speed law for trucks.
Reporting on the results of its recent delegate convention, the federation asked the legislature for an increase in the legal speed of trucks weighing more than five tons from 45 miles an hour to 55 miles.
The Federation expressed general satisfaction with state enforcement policies, and made these specific proposals:
Retention of the present minimum age rule of 16 years for the issuance of permanent drivers' licenses.
"Rigid prosecution of convicted drunken or habitually reckless drivers" is needed.
A uniform system of traffic signals, preferably throughout the country, but at least within the state of Wisconsin.
A study of the feasibility of replacing some of the stop signs on rural roads with yield right of way signs.
The equipment of all railroad cars with reflectors or reflectorized paint on both sides to provide additional safety at railroad-highway intersections and especially at locations without warning lights.
Retention of the present driver point system of demerits "which seems to be helping somewhat in curbing accidents."

Escaping Tax

New System

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison — Until the state constitution is amended to permit alternative methods of assessing the personal property tax, some farm livestock in the state probably will continue to escape the local tax assessor, a southern Wisconsin rural district legislator says.
Assemblyman Walter Calvert, La Fayette county, made the comment in response to a resolution of the LaFayette county board complaining large numbers of feeder beef cattle are escaping taxation in that locality and others because they are bought and brought to Wisconsin after the assessment date of May 1 and marketed before the next assessment date.
The county board asked its representatives, including its Senate Majority Leader Robert Travis, to investigate the possibility of remedial legislation.
Calvert said that four years ago he had worked on the problem and investigated a plan for the levying of an occupational tax to cover livestock producers whose animals are not covered in the May 1 personal property assessment.

The amendment has the backing of Gov. Nelson and the citizens revenue study commission. It must be approved by two succeeding legislatures and by a vote of the people before it can become effective and thus could not go into effect before the 1964 assessment year.

For Breeding

"Dairy Cattle Will Give Extra Profits
If Calf in Spring"
Breeding dairy animals this December and January for calving early next fall will mean extra profits from the dairy herd.
Cows that calve in the fall usually produce about 15 pounds more butterfat and 300 to 400 pounds more milk than a cow that calves in the spring or summer.
This results from better feeding and management during the winter and a boost in production from the spring pasture feeding program.
Other advantages of fall calving are that cows are at peak production during the base price period and that cows are drying off in July and August when pastures are poorest. Heifers and cows bred to calve in the fall also bring a better price.

HOWEVER, because of the unexpected out-of-season demand for our new self unloading racks and heavy duty wagons for the coming 1960 season, we cannot promise to take orders for this type of change-over after Dec. 15, 1959. Cheesemen May Seek Regulation of Federal Milk Order

Hearing Planned Early in 1960
For Northeast Pool Farmers

Outagamie county cheesemakers may seek regulation of federal milk marketing orders soon at a public hearing on the northeastern Wisconsin milk pool.

A hearing is set within a 6-month period after a federal order has been in effect for one year. All farmers and plants involved in the order are given a chance to suggest changes or make complaints. This is done before regulations making up the order become permanent law.

After the hearing, the agriculture department studies the results and recommends changes or additions to the order.

Order Into Effect
When a federal order goes into effect it covers only milk plants handling 50 per cent class 1 milk (milk used for bottling and cream) during a 3-month period base, September through November, providing the plant meets health standards.

All milk coming under a order is classed according to usage. Three classes are worked out, class 1, class 2 (milk used for anything other than bottling, cream, butter, powdered milk and cheese) and class 3 (milk used for butter, powdered milk and cheese).

Handlers in the order buy milk according to limits set during the qualifying period. If a farmer's cows produced 500 pounds of class 1 milk during the qualifying period, anything over is sold as surplus at a lower price. Handlers can buy this surplus class 1 milk at a price 19 cents lower than cheese handlers can buy milk outside the order.

Work Through Farmer
The cheesemakers, at the time a hearing is set on the northeast order, hope to, through farmers who are members of the order pool, attempt to have a change in the base qualifying period and price spread between class 1 regular and class 1 surplus milk.

If the base qualifying period for farmers was set during a high milk production period and a base excess was added to the pool, the cheesemakers feel the price spread would be less.

A farmer must meet the minimum amount of Class 1 production established during his base period to stay in the pool. If he exceeds it, he is penalized because the surplus is dumped on the market at a lower price.

Cheesemakers believe the base period should be at a time of high production so the farmers will try to "hold" output at times of high production about equal to that of low production periods. The net result would be a relatively equal flow of milk on the market throughout the year.

Traces Background
Truman Graf, agricultural economist at the University of Wisconsin, traced the background of milk orders for the cheesemakers.

Farmers not able to bargain for a fair price from large milk manufacturers sought a way to gain a fair price with the milk order device.

The enabling act for federal orders as approved by congress in 1933 set minimum prices farmers can receive for milk they supply to class 1 handlers.

Orders are put in force only after farmers in an area request them and can show reasons why they are necessary. A public hearing or referendum vote for farmers supplying class 1 milk is necessary for approval of a federal order.

Prices Set
Under an order a minimum price for each of the three milk classes is set. As of July, 1959, the 21 counties making up the northeast pool paid $3.65 per hundredweight for class 1 milk, $2.83 for class 2 milk and $2.81 for class 3 milk.

These rates are figured by economists who weigh the quality, quantity and price of each of the three classes from the experience of area handlers and establish a blend price. With such a price it is believed a farmer supplying milk is getting fair pay for his product.

Potato Association Elects New Officers

Antigo — J. Emil Jorgenson of Clearwater Lake was elected president of the Wisconsin Potato Growers association.

Other officers elected included Jack Dierck, Antigo, vice president and Wayne Brittenham, Bryant, secretary-treasurer. Harold Simons, Antigo, was reappointed executive secretary.

The Forgotten Art of hand picking corn is tried by Clarence Bastian in his field north of Kaukauna. Bastian said he went through 20 rows by hand when pickers bogged in the muck and silage corn was too dry to chop. About two-thirds of the county's 58,000 acres of corn is still in the field.

4 FFA Boys Get Awards

$10 Divided by Top Corn Growers In Crop Contest

Clintonville — Four members of the Future Farmers of America have been named winners in the corn growing contest sponsored by the Wisconsin Crop Improvement association and will divide a $10 cash award.

E. A. Hutchinson, adviser, reported Dennis Fredrich, David Fredrich, Dennis Hoffmann and Dale Wait will share in the prize money.

The first three boys named produced between 125 to 130 bushels of corn per acre and Wait produced the next highest. Others who participated in the program and who produced between 100 and 125 bushels of corn per acre were Roger Kratzke, Arden Patri, LeRoy Klomp and Thomas Gloeck. Fifteen boys in all took part in the contest, Hutchinson said.

The corn was planted in rows 38 and 42 inches apart and had a moisture content between 12 and 28 per cent at the time of picking.

More on Epitaphs Since Readers Keep Sending Them to Charlie

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Once again, epitaphs. The readers have been sending them in and the flood gates are open. (Please do not complain to the management!)

Here's a bit of tempered praise for an old soldier. It is on his tombstone in Suffolk, England:

Here lies an old soldier whom all should applaud.

He fought many battles at home and abroad.

But the hottest engagement he ever was in

Was the battle of self in the conquest of sin.

House

In Athens, Greece, a bitter epitaph appears on the grave of a woman. If I may take liberties and guess as to its hidden content it would seem that the lady's sons provided for her, but resented the fact that her parents—richer, perhaps—did nothing on her behalf. Translated from the Greek, it reads:

If ever there was a thoroughly good woman

I am she, both in reference to righteousness

And in all other things.

But, being such, I got no just return

Neither from those from whom I expected it

Nor from providence.

Unhappy I lie apart from my mother and father.

I say nothing about what gratitude they showed me.

Not they, but my sons, provided for me.

England's oldest known epitaph is in Oxfordshire and bears the date 1370. Written in ancient English, it translates to this sad refrain:

Man, come and see how all dead shall be

When you have become poor and bare.

Nothing have we when we away fare,

And all is weariness for which we care.

In 1846, at Hoosick, N.Y., there was a cause celebre when a small grave was violated by a doctor who used the corpse for dissection. He was apprehended and punished. The message on the child's grave:

Her body dissected by fiendish man,

Her bones anatomized, Her soul, we trust, has risen to God,

Where few physicians rise.

In a recent column on the subject of epitaphs of the famous, I boldly stated that apparently outstanding persons are given their fair share of dignity and that I was unable to find any humorous epitaphs. However, an Appleton reader sends this epitaph on His Royal Highness, Prince of Wales, who died on March 28, 1751:

Here lies Fred

Who was alive, and is dead.

Had it been his father I had much rather;

Had it been his mother, Better than another;

Had it been his sister No one would have missed her.

Had it been his entire generation,

So much better for the nation;

But since 'tis only Fred Who was alive, and is dead

There's no more to be said.

Strangely enough, some people seek anonymity even in death. One such is commemorated in a South Carolina cemetery. It reads:

My name, my country, What are they to thee?

What—whether high or low my pedigree?

Perhaps I far surpassed All other men;

Perhaps I fall below them What then?

Suffice it, stranger, Thou see'st a tomb.

Thou know'st its use: It hides—no matter whom.

Perhaps cold philosophy is responsible for the bleak, uninformative epitaph from an Italian churchyard. It reads all too simply:

Lelio is buried here.

He was born. He lived. He died.

Of course, grammatical errors are numerous and often very funny. One interesting epitaph from a Germantown, Penn., cemetery reads thus:

Here lies the bones of my boy Fritz.

The Lord took him with ague fits.

He was too good to live with me.

So God took him up to live with He.

To close today's column, I use the most recent addition to my "sassy letters" file.

This, from Green Bay's Don Smits (for which, to heck with him!):

Here sits Charlie

For whom we mourn.

Not because he died—

But because he was born.

Dogs Make Pubs Unpopular Spots

Pallsades Park, N.J.—H—

Hooch with no pooch, that's what James Sherlock is looking for.

Sherlock, 66, was sipping his beer in a local pub when a dog walked over to him and bit him on the left hand.

Well, you can drink beer with your right hand just as well, so Sherlock walked down the street to another bar.

There he met another dog who promptly bit him on the right hand.

No more drinking for Sherlock. He got his hands treated and called it a day.

The dogs were ordered tied up.
